LIBRARY OF CONGRESS WASHINGTON, D. C.

Delivers Three Addresses, One to a Gathering of Women, and ipates in Several Street Demonstrations—Visits Campaign Headquarters, and is Told That There is a Decided Swing in the West to Democratic Ticket.

ANTI-WILSON SUFFRAGISTS ATTACKED BY A CROWD OF SEVERAL HUNDRED, AND THEIR BANNERS DESTROYED

Near Riot Follows When They Attempt "Silent Demonstration"—Some of the Women Are Roughly Handled, and Are Escorted Back to Their Headquarters Under Police Guard—Texts of Mr. Wilson's Speeches Given in Part.

Chicago, October 19. — President Wilson came here today to explain his views on problems facing the Nation. Arriving in Chicago after shaking hands with crowds in Indiana, he delivered three speeches, participated in several street demonstrations and went over his western campaign plans with his managers at headquarters here. He planned to leave at midnight and expects to arrive at Long Branch at midnight tomorrow.

In a speech before the Chicago Press Club, the President predicted the beginning of "a renaissance of the sense of patriotic responsibility," and urged the development of progressiveness. Speaking before a gathering of women, later, he urged more participation of women in the affairs of the Nation, and, at a meeting tonight of new citizens he declared for a united America.

Throngs Everywhere Cheer Him.

With his every appearance the President was cheered by throngs which packed the streets during his automobile rides from place to place, and filled to capacity the halls in which he spoke. He stood constantly in his automobile while passing through the crowds and smilingly waved his hat to the people on the streets, and in the windows of buildings.

Women "Demonstrators" Attacked.

An attempted "silent demonstration" by members of the National Woman's Party in front of the auditorium developed into a near riot in which the banners opposing were torn from the demonstrators and trampled and the women were roughly handled President Wilson was seated in an automobile a hundred feet away when the demonstration started, but passed into the building and was not a witness to the scene that followed.

Placards Are Destroyed.

Shouting "shame," "disgrace," and "get the banners," a crowd of several hundred, sprinkled with women, charged the banner holders. Umbrellas and canes were used in the destruction of the placards. Many of the women were knocked down and nearly all were roughly handled, especially those who strove to retain their banners.

The excitement continued until all the banners had been seized. With disheveled hair and soiled and torn clothing, the women marched back to their headquarters under police guard.

Charges Against Police.

Charges that the police sympathized with the rioters and failed to protect the demonstrators were made by Mrs. Josephine Pearce and Mrs. E. L. Mattice, officials of the local woman's Republican clubs.

"There were all kinds of policemen standing about merely looking on, not moving a hand," said Mrs. Pearce. "Some of them didn't seem to want to help us. I saw the policemen deliberately stand nearby and laugh at us while we were being beaten and the banners torn from our hands.

"We were merely standing quietly holding our banners and not harming any one. Suddenly there was a regular riot. They grabbed our banners, trampled on them and knocked us down. It was terrible."

Negro Waiters "Strike."

Negro waiters employed at the Press Club utilized the presence of President Wilson at lunch there to gain for themselves a raise in wages, without investigation and without compromise. Just before the President was due to arrive thirty special waiters who were to serve the luncheon put on their coats preparatory to walking out. They had not asked for more pay, but when stopped by the steward told him they had decided they must have a fifty per cent increase on the contract price before they would begin their duties. The advantage was theirs and the increase was granted.

Mrs. Wilson Applauded.

Mrs. Wilson accompanied the President and drew almost as much applause. Between his speech to the women and his night address, the President went to the Western Democratic campaign headquarters and for the first time witnessed the details of the machinery used in an effort to re-elect him. Senator Walsh, chairman of the headquarters, told the President that "a decided swing had set in in the West for the Democratic ticket."

Introduced by Mrs. Young.

At the meeting of women the President was introduced by Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, former superintendent of Chicago's schools, who declared he had kept the United States honorably at peace. Miss Jane Addams, who recently declared for him, occupied a seat in a box. The hall, with a capacity of 4,200, was filled and many women stood.

The President defined his message to the women as follows:

"Society is now organizing its whole power in order that it may understand itself, in order that it may have a new organization and instrument of civilization; and I am ambitious that America should show the way in this great enterprise."

He did not touch on votes for women. The President declared that some of the difficulties in the foreign relationships of the United States have been due to the fact that other nations have not realized that this Nation was disinterested.

"When the nations of the world come to love America," he said, "they will obey and follow America."

President's Speech to Women.

His speech follows in part:

"There never was a time when it was more necessary for the nations of the world to exercise self-possession, to acquire self-knowledge, to determine their direction and purpose and to relate themselves to the general work of establishing justice among mankind. I think that every one of us as Americans would be ashamed if America did not know exactly what she was about and by what means and instrumentalities she was going to act. I therefore thought that you would indulge me this afternoon if I tried to point out what seemed to me the leading peculiarities of the task that lies before me.

"You can best illustrate it by the relations between employers and employes. Justice can no longer be cold. It is beginning to have warmth and sympathy and emotion in it. And there is coming the time, unless I am very much mistaken, when nations shall agree with nations that the rights of humanity are greater than the rights of sovereignty.

"Therefore, modern society has a new set of problems to meet. It has to say, if the employer will not voluntarily establish the proper conditions of labor, the law must oblige him to establish the proper conditions of labor.

"I have said before that one of the things that most deeply distressed me in the recent conference of the heads of the railways and their employes was to find that there was a profound mutual misunderstanding, distrust and hostility.

Should Trust One Another.

"It ought not to be so. Something is wrong when the men who are working together at the same thing do not trust one another, and that wrong thing rests, I am profoundly convinced, upon intelligence, it rests upon not associating with each other in the kind of conference which will enable them to understand one another.

"Politics, my friends, consists of something that you can almost express in the formula 'get together.' Try to understand what is the common task. You cannot understand society unless you understand the component parts so that after all the formula 'get together' lies at the base of it all, and the first step is for the elements of society to understand one another. The next thing is that the elements of society should understand their common relationship to the society of which they constitute a part. When I see some gentlemen running amuck I am perfectly aware that they do not see that by running recklessly against the interests of other people they are really checking the enterprise which they think they are promoting.

"If you are wrong, you will get it knocked out of you, and if you are right, you will help knock it out of other people.

"What difference does it make that you think a thing as a Republican, if it is wrong? What difference does it make if you think a thing as a Democrat, if it is not true? And what difference does a party make or a party's interests make, as compared with the interests of the Nation itself?

"Now it occurred to me that you would permit me to suggest what the particular function is in this new age. Men have tried their hand at it, and in the opinion of a great many of you have made a mess of it. And it must be obvious, if what I have already said is true, that the functions that have to be determined by those who lead opinion have taken on an entirely new enaracter.

"The whole spirit of the law has

VIRTUALLY ADMIT LOSS OF BREMEN

IS NOW A MONTH OVERDUE

It is Said Disappearance of the Craft Will Not Cause Abandonment of Project for Undersea Merchant Line.

Washington, October 19. — Loss of the German submarine merchantman Bremen virtually was conceded today by ranking Teutonic diplomats in position to be familiar with the movements of the vessel. The Bremen is now one month overdue. She was commanded by Captain Schwarzkopf, and carried a crew of approximately 25 men.

It was admitted that German officials were without information as to the fate of the Bremen. All they know is that she set out for America from Bremerhaven and that she should have arrived at an American port soon after the middle of last month.

The disappearance of the Bremen will not cause abandonment of the project to send merchant submarines regularly from Germany to the United States, it was said. There appeared to be reason to expect that another sub-sea freighter would reach an American port some time within the next month.

German officials in Washington do not believe the Bremen could have failed into the hands of the British unless she had some accident to her machinery, an argument advanced in support of the belief that the Bremen had met with an accident rather than capture, was that she had aboard a number of important documents for the German embassy here, which probably would have been made public had they fallen into the hands of the British.

URGES WILSON'S ELECTION

Bryan Assails Campaign Methods of the Republicans.

Elizabethtown, Ky., Oct. 19.—W. J. Bryan, in addresses here this afternoon and several other Kentucky towns during the day in behalf of President Wilson, praised the President's handling of the country's affairs and urged his re-election. Referring to the campaign methods of the Republican party, he attacked them as being those of "futile criticism."

On his arrival here, where he made his principal address of the day, Mr Bryan was greeted by a large crowd which escorted him to the court house yard, where he spoke.

MARINE INSURANCE DROPS.

Has Gradually Fallen From Quotations Following U-53 Raids.

New York, October 19. — The abnormal rates on war risks for marine insurance which have prevailed since the sinking of the trans-Atlantic merchant ships off the American coast by the German submarine U-53, have gradually been reduced, and today some New York underwriters quoted 1 per cent on risks. In some quarters, however, 1¼ per cent is asked on big consignments.

SIX MEN ENTOMBED AND NINE OTHERS MISSING

Interior of Mine Wrecked by Explosion of Coal Dust.

Two Hundred Men Working Desperately to Clear Away Debris But Entombed Men May Not Be Reached Before Noon Today.

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 19.—Six men are known to have been entombed and nine others are missing as a result of an explosion of coal dust today in mine No. 2 of the Jamison Coal and Coke Company, at Barrackville, near here. The interior of the mine, as well as the tipple and other buildings, were wrecked by the blast and although 200 men are tonight working desperately to clear away the debris, officials of the company believe it will be noon tomorrow before rescuers can enter the workings.

The work of removing the wreckag is being superintended by R. H. Jamison, of Pittsburg, general manager of the company, who happened to be in Fairmont today. A rescue car from the Pittsburg station of the Bureau of Mines arrived tonight.

About 250 men are ordinarily employed in the mine, but owing to a shortage in cars, they were not working today.

STATUS OF NEGRO STILL UNCHANGED

RESOLUTION BY DR. MILTON

Rector of St. James' Church, Wilmington, N. C., Asks That Prayer for World Peace be Included in the Ritual.

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—Rejection by the House of Bishops of a proposal to divide the Episcopal church along racial lines and a clash between militarists and pacifists in a debate on prayer in the House of Deputies were outstanding features today of the General Convention here of the Protestant Episcopal church. The House of Deputies concurred in the upper house's action in refusing to provide negro dioceses under the supervision of negro bishops.

The majority of the commission on racial episcopate recommended that the church be divided along racial lines, but a minority report said that such a division was "both un-Christian and un-Catholic." The minority report was adopted.

The House of Bishops also amended the minority report providing for favoring the appointment of negro suffragan bishops to give negro suffragans a temporary right of succession to the diocesan bishopric, with a vote in the House of Bishops. This amendment probably will cause discussion in the House of Deputies, for, if adopted, it may result in a negro bishop temporarily presiding over a white diocese.

Militarists and Pacifists Clash.

The House of Deputies was divided into two factions in the debate on proposal of the commission on the enrichment of the Book of Common Prayer to add prayers for the army and navy.

The prayer upon which most of the discussion was based, which was finally adopted, was recommended by the commission. It asked the Lord, God of Hosts "to strengthen and protect the soldiers of our country; support them in the day of battle, and in time of peace keep them safe from evil."

It also pleaded that "in all things they may serve without reproach." A similar prayer suggested by the commission for the navy also was adopted.

One faction, led by the Rev. John Howard Melish, of Brooklyn, held that any war is un-Christian and that no soldier can serve without reproach. The other, of which the Rev. Leighton Parks, of New York, was the spokesman, while not championing war, argued that it is the duty of the church to pray for those men who forsake civil pursuits, in which the remuneration might be greater, for the service of their country.

Resolution by Dr. Milton.

Previously, several delegates had urged the inclusion in the ritual of a prayer for world peace. The Rev. W. H. Milton, rector of St. James' church, Wilmington, N. C., introduced a resolution to this end which was referred to the commission.

As a result of the debate the prayers recommended by the commission for the army and navy, together with a substitute offered by Dr. Melish, were re-committed to the committee and when after re-consideration, it reported inability to change its first recommendations, the prayers for the army and navy, as recommended, were adopted. If approved by the House of Bishops, the prayers will be in tentative use in the next three years and will be acted upon finally at the next general convention.

Dr. Melish said that if these prayers were adopted an irreparable injury would be done the youth of the nation.

"You are bringing upon this nation,

HUGHES MAKES REPLY TO SECRETARY M'ADOO

Finds It Hard to Make Administration Understand Him.

Says He Still Believes That If He Had Been President His "Policy" Would Have Prevented Sinking of Lusitania.

Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 19.—Charles E. Hughes, reiterating that he meant what he said in Louisville the other night about the course he would have followed with reference to the Lusitania, tonight replied to a recent utterance of Secretary McAdoo, with the declaration that apparently it seemed impossible to the administration that one could mean what he said.

"The Secretary of the Treasury finds fault with my answer to the question put to me the other night at Louisville about the sinking of the Lusitania," Mr. Hughes said. "He says that I did not say what I would have done after the sinking. You may recall that I stated specifically the position I would have taken in advance and the notice I would have given of the action I should take and I added that with this position unequivocally stated in advance and backed by a convincing administration record, the ships would not have been sunk.

"Now rises the Secretary of the

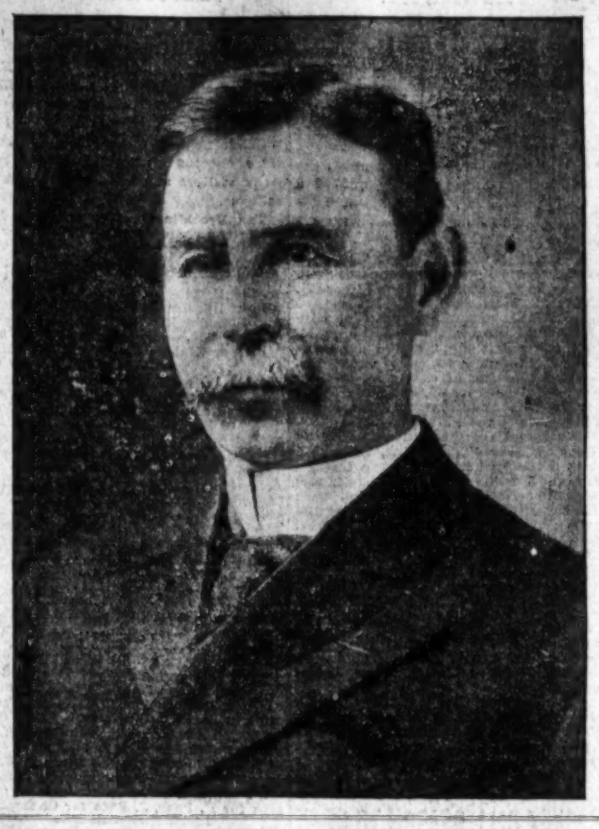
SENATOR F. M. SIMMONS DELIVERS HIS FIRST SPEECH OF THE CAMPAIGN IN FAYETTEVILLE



SAYS WILSON IN THE STRIKE CRISIS ROSE TO HEIGHT OF THE WORLD'S GREAT HEROES

Senator Simmons Delivers His First Speech of the Campaign at Fayetteville—Declares if Hughes Will Openly Commit Himself to Repeal of Great Measures Enacted Under Wilson, He Won't Carry a State—Points Out Danger of Butlerism.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Fayetteville, N. C., Oct. 19.—Senator F. M. Simmons, chairman of the Finance committee of the United States Senate, delivering his first address of the campaign here today, speaking with responsibility, he said, "because I happen to be a member of the Senate and no man who is a member of that great body can speak flippantly," declared that if Chas. E. Hughes would come out tomorrow and tell the people of the country that if elected he would repeal the great measures placed on the statute books by Wilson and the Democratic party; the Federal Reserve Bank system; the Farm Loan Bank system, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Income Tax law, and the Chip Purchase bill, he would not carry a single state in the Union.

In speaking of the Income Tax law, he said that, even should the Nation be so unfortunate as to witness the election of Hughes and a Republican House "there is not a chance in the world for them to carry the Senate," and, "as long as I am there," he said, "and there is breath in my body, they will never repeal that law." The Senior Senator said he had never filibustered in his life, but would filibuster until he dropped dead before the Ship Purchase bill would be repealed. "We would stay in session at least two years," he said.

Senator Simmons said Woodrow Wilson, in the railway strike crisis, rose to the height of the world's great heroes. He was told, said Mr. Simmons, that his intervention might mean his and his party's defeat, but the President said: "My personal fortunes do not weigh in the balance with the danger to the people." And he intervened and with the help of Congress settled the strike, "and by all the gods" cried the speaker, "we settled it right." The charge that the strike settlement was "legislation by force" he characterized as false.

School Money Per Capita.

Perhaps the greater part of Mr. Simmons' speech was devoted to a thorough and a brilliant discussion of State issues, in the course of which he declared that the Democratic party would join issue with Mr. Linney on his contention that the State's school money should be distributed "among the children of the State, white and black, per capita."

"We will not distribute the school money per capita," said Mr. Simmons, "and we could not without closing every school house in every sparsely settled district of the State."

The Senator had the crowd with him from start to finish. His speech, which was delivered in the LaFayette theatre, was preceded by a procession headed by a band, in which pupils of the high school and citizens participated.

County Chairman R. H. Dye presented Jno. A. Oates, who introduced Mr. Simmons as the most distinguished member of the greatest deliberative body in the world.

Enemies of Good Government.

The first half of the Senator's address he devoted entirely to State affairs. He said down here in North Carolina he had come to regard the enemies of the Democratic party as the enemies of good State government. He drew the first laugh from the crowd with a reference to Marion Butler. He had outlined some of the history of Republican rule in North Carolina and told his hearers that this party, now asking to be put back in power, had shown no sign of sorrow for wrongdoing or promise of reform. "And, with the placing of Marion Butler at the head of their party," he said, "they seem to have suffered a hopeless and irretrievable relapse." Later on he referred to Butler as a Machiavelli and expressed the belief that if the Republican party were restored to power in North Carolina it would reintroduce the negro in our system of government.

"I know this much," said Mr. Simmons, "that down in my neck of the woods, where Mr. Butler's brother is running, there is a remarkable awakening of interest in politics among the negroes."

A few nights ago, when Butler's brother spoke in Mr. Simmons' town, one-third of his hearers were negroes, it was said.

What G. O. P. Would Do.

The Senator stated emphatically that if North Carolina were turned over to the Republican party it would be set back 50 years behind the other progressive states of the Union; that the Republican party in no state in the South had shown itself competent to govern; that if there were any difference today, it was less so than in the past, because many competent men had deserted it under the stress of the white supremacy campaign. And, he had not heard of any competent accessions.

When, acceding to the request of an old gray haired man on a front seat, he began to "tell about Woodrow Wilson," the people showed their approval in no uncertain terms.

"The history of Woodrow Wilson is the history of his deeds," he said, and began a wonderful unfolding of the achievements of Wilson's administration, of which he spoke with authority and with eloquence. In the face of this wonderful achievement, he said, "the Republican party has nothing to propose and nothing which it dares openly oppose."

Senator Simmons brought great applause when he concluded with the statement that he wanted to see the Federal government recognize Fayetteville's great transportation and water power systems by placing the armor plant here.

SNOW AND SLEET GREET THE ROOSEVELT SPECIAL IN WEST

Former President Made Only One Address on the Trip Yesterday.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 19.—Storms of snow and sleet greeted the special carrying Theodore Roosevelt tonight as he entered the west to advocate the election of Charles E. Hughes for President.

The only rear platform speech of the trip today was made at Jefferson City, Mo., where Mr. Roosevelt spoke for five minutes. He called attention to the Lusitania incident and declared "the crime was the result of foreigners being of the opinion that Americans did not mean what they said."

"And they were right," he concluded.

FRENCH DRAWING LINES NEARER TO TOWN OF PERONNE

Further Advance Against Germans Made in Attack West of Somme River Thursday.

SLIGHT GAIN BY BRITISH

No Decisive Result on Russian Front—Rumanians Claim to be Again on Offensive.

Gradually the French are drawing their front closer to the town of Peronne, on the eastern bank of the Somme river in France. After Wednesday's advance along a mile front between Biaches and LaMaisonnette on the west side of the river, an attack launched Thursday was rewarded with further gains which virtually brings them to the bank of the stream.

To the north and east of Sailly-Saillesel, where the French have advanced their line in the last few days at what the Berlin war office asserts was a cost in casualties not commensurate with the gain, the Germans have made a violent counter attack, which was repulsed.

Berlin says that in their attack on the Sars-Morval front the British captured German positions, which later were retaken by the Teutons. Heavy rains fell Thursday on the British front and except for a slight gain by the British at Butte deWarlencourt and the repulse of a German counter attack there, comparative quiet prevailed.

As yet no decisive result has been achieved by either the Austro-Germans or the Russians in the violent fighting that has been going on for several days in Volhynia and Galicia. The Petrograd war office says that near Kiselin and Sviniusky, in Volhynia, violent attacks by the Teutonic allies were repulsed, while Berlin records the capture of Russian trenches on the west bank of the Stokhod and the repulse with heavy casualties of Russian attacks near Bubnow.

South of Zborow, in Galicia, several enterprises have been carried out successfully by the Austrians while at other points Russian attacks were put down.

Having held the Teutonic allies in the mountain passes on the Transylvania-Rumanian border for several days, the Rumanians have taken the offensive at various points and now are declared to be pushing back their adversaries, who are leaving prisoners and guns in the hands of the Rumanians. Berlin, however, controverts this statement by the assertion that the Austro-Germans are engaged in successful fighting in the mountain passes.

Generally speaking, there is no change in the situation in Macedonia although both the Entente and Teutonic allies made claim to minor successes on various sectors. The Bulgarians in the vicinity of Monastir are bringing up reinforcements and a large number of trench mortars.

Except on Mount Pasubio, in the Trentino region, where the Austrians in violent attacks recaptured positions taken Tuesday by the Italians, only to be driven out again, artillery duels are taking place in the Austro-Italian theatre.

FIELD MARSHAL VON KLUCK PLACED ON RETIRED LIST

Berlin, October 19 (via London) — Field Marshal Alexander H. R. Von-Kluck, who commanded the right wing of the German army in its sweep towards Paris in the fall of 1914, has been placed on the retired list at his own request. He had never returned to the front since he was wounded by shrapnel fire in March, 1915, while inspecting advanced positions. The field marshal was 70 years of age last May.

MAY MEAN THE RENEWAL OF RIGID SUBMARINE WARFARE?

Berlin, Tuesday, Oct. 17 (via London, Oct. 19).—The Kriegs Zeitung, the evening edition of the Lokal Anzeiger, publishes a report that the British have ordered the arming of all merchantmen and says that as a result Germany may be forced to take up a sharper submarine campaign, with consequent endangerment of German-American relations. It continues:

"If it is true that England actually intends to arm all its merchantmen with heavy and therefore far-carrying guns and thus label them plainly as warships intended for attack, it cannot be avoided that, whether we wish to or not, we must give a sharper tendency to our submarine campaign."

POSITIONS RE-TAKEN FROM ITALIANS BY THE AUSTRIANS

Berlin, via Sayville, October 19.—Austrian troops have reconquered positions north of the summit of Monte Pasubio, in the Trentino, and have repulsed Italian attacks, says the official statement issued from Austro-Hungarian headquarters today. Eleven officers and 150 prisoners were taken by the Austrians.

SAYS U-BOATS WILL OPERATE OFF NANTUCKET IN FUTURE

Amsterdam, October 19 (via London) —The Volks Zeitung, of Cologne, says:

"German submarines will operate in the future in the Western Atlantic. They will visit the well-known spring routes around the eastern point of Nantucket island, and will sink British merchantmen after giving the crews opportunities to save themselves."

The newspaper believes this activity will influence the supplying of food, especially grain, bacon and lard, to England.

SAN ANDRES TAKEN BY VILLA COMMAND

REFUGEE BRINGS THE NEWS

Says Atrocities Were Permitted Against Defenseless Inhabitants—People, Panic Stricken, Are Leaving the Town.

Chihuahua City, Oct. 18 (via El Paso Junction, Oct. 19.)—Francisco Villa and a part of his command took possession of the mining town of San Andres, 25 miles west of here, yesterday. Angered because the male population fled to prevent being impressed into his service Villa ordered the houses burned and permitted atrocities upon the defenseless inhabitants, a refugee from San Andres, who arrived here today, reported to General Trevino.

Panic stricken inhabitants of San Andres are pouring into this city and the entire San Andres district, the home of Villa's first warfare, is being depopulated. A telegram received by General Trevino from Santa Ysabel, today reported Villa with 400 men about 10 miles north of San Andres. Jose Ynez Salazar, Villa's second in command, is reported to be in Cusihuiriachic with a force.

General Trevino has ordered General Carlos Ozuna to entrain with a column of 2,000 toroops, mostly cavalry, to proceed along the Mexico Northwestern railroad in pursuit of Villa bands.

MR. H. L. CUMMING CHIEF ENGINEER OF CUBAN RAILWAY

Former Wilmingtonian Appointed to Responsible Position.

Of interest to a wide circle of friends in Wilmington will be the announcement that Mr. H. L. Cumming, a son of the late Preston Cumming and a brother of Mrs. Walker Taylor, of this city, has been appointed as chief engineer of the Guantanamo & Western Railroad Company, in Cuba, effective October 10th. Mr. Cumming was for nearly ten years chief engineer of the National Railroad of Mexico with headquarters at Tampico, but was forced to leave that country about two years ago when conditions became such that it was not safe for Americans to remain longer in that country. He is an experienced railroad civil engineer and has been conected with several leading railroads in the South American and Central American states.

"Guantanamo & Western Railroad Company—Circular No. 6.

Guantanamo, Oct. 10, 1916.

E. M. WISE,
"General Manager."

WEATHER MAN PROMISES FAIR AND COOLER WEATHER TODAY

Stars Shine on Wilmington Last Night, After Day of Weeping Skies.

Fair today.

Let's all thank a kindly Providence and the weather man that all this terrible slop and mean irritating rain is over for a while at least.

For all day yesterday "the earth was sick and the skies were gray, and everybody—that is, everybody who went outside—was drenched with rain. A raincoat stood no more chance against the weeping elements than a lattice work barricade would against a battery of French siege guns. According to the data gathered in the office of the local observer, the total rainfall for the day was 2.66.

Late last night, however, the clouds had dispersed and the stars were looking down on the rain-drenched city, bidding fair to vindicate the weather man in his forecast for fair weather for toay. The red light was no longer burning on the roof of the Federal building, and there is general rejoicing that the sun will appear again today, after being cut off from us for nearly the whole of two days.

The prediction for today is fair and somewhat cooler, while tomorrow we are promised fair weather and cooler, not somewhat cooler, but cooler. Mark that.

All interested persons are invited to be present, or be represented at this hearing, and give their views as to what benefits are to be derived from the proposed improvement. All important facts or arguments should be submitted in writing.

SEEK TO ATTACH FUNDS.

American Bank & Trust Company Starts Action in Superior Court.

Warrant of attachment proceedings were instituted in Superior Court yesterday by the American Bank & Trust Company against the Germania Manufacturing Company to attach funds in the hands of Mr. James Owen Reilly, agent for the London Assurance Corporation. The action was started by Robert Ruark, Esq., attorney for the bank.

The plant of the Germania Manufacturing Co., which had not been in operation for the past two years, was burned several weeks ago and it is understood that the action started yesterday is for the purpose of attaching money due for insurance, it being alleged that the company owes the bank funds, said to be about $1,000. No complaint was filed in the case.

Van Brocklin Wins For A. & M. College

WAKE FOREST DEFEATED IN ANNUAL FAIR WEEK GAME BY SCORE OF 6 TO 0—BOTH SIDES PLAY GOOD BALL.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 19.—Wake Forest was the loser in the annual football mix-up with A. & M. by a score of 6 to 0. The game was played on Riddick field and the old time rivals were cheered on by numerous Fair week visitors and the students of both colleges.

Van Brocklin was the principal factor in the victory for A. & M. After an exchange of punts in the third quarter, the red topped star carried the pigskin over for the only score of the otherwise listless contest.

Both lines played good ball. Neither A. & M. nor Wake Forest could gain consistently, A. & M. made 10 first downs to Wake Forest 5, and the Baptists were penalized 20 yards to the Aggies 15, all the results of being off side.

For Wake Forest, Parker, R. Pace and Blizzard played good ball and McDougall, Rice, Pierson and Van Brocklin were A. & M.'s best bet.

ANOTHER LADY OF WILMINGTON ADDS PRAISE TO TANLAC

Mrs. H. L. Barnhill, whose husband is a popular member of the Wilmington Fire Department, says of Tanlac: "It has given me a splendid appetite, and I enjoy eating, too. I have gained so much strength and in the mornings I feel refreshed from a good night's sleep and am not nervous, either. My kidneys have been helped and no longer trouble me. I believe Tanlac to be the best medicine I ever saw—two bottles have built me up more than all the others I have taken together.

"Before taking Tanlac, I suffered considerably from kidney trouble and general debility. Last spring and summer I had a very poor appetite and also I was very nervous. What little I did eat seemed to do me no good, and I was growing weaker every day. I was almost completely exhausted when I saw Tanlac advertised. That I am glad I have taken it, is needless to mention."

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Oct. 19.—What would have happened had the administration allowed the nation-wide railroad strike to break a few weeks ago was pictured by Claude Kitchin, majority leader in the House of Representatives, in the second of two notable speeches here, addressing constituents in East Kinston. The congressman, the guest of the largest town in his district, had for an audience workingmen and their wives.

"They would have mobbed the White House!" he declared, describing the conditions that would have followed the strike of four hundred thousand conductors, engineers, firemen and trainmen, and asserting that with twelve million men out of employment, the price of meat rise to a dollar or more a pound and flour to $25 a barrel and actual famine holding sway throughout the length and breadth of the land, the populace in the frantic chaos would have hung the men in power to blame and wreaked vengeance. Congress had the power to stop the strike, and did stop it.

The passage of the Adamson act virtually left the matters over which capital and labor were contending in status quo until the commission appointed could investigate the whole affair and put no illegal restraint upon either party to the controversy, he said. It simply averted a national calamity, the seriousness of which was apparent before the strike order was issued. The results of that strike would have forced the nation to its knees—would have starved its babies and starved its men and women and played genetal havoc, Mr. Kitchin asserted. Congress did not have in mind the railway magnates nor the railway workers when it enacted that great measure, but it asserted its authority in behalf of the ninety-odd millions of American people who would have been made to suffer through a few millions' disagreement.

The Second district's representative held himself up as the friend of labor. His hearers applauded him when he told of the work of the administration to improve the workingmen's status. For instance, the power by which, at the behest of capital, they had sent labor men to federal penitentiaries without the right of trial by jury had been wrested from "two-by-four" federal judges, and other things enacted for the laborer's benefit. A poll of union leaders, he stated, had shown that the very great majority of the members will vote for Wilson. He paid a glowing tribute to Samuel Gompers, nonpartisan, who, although he had generally voted the Republican ticket, is supporting Wilson now because the schoolmaster statesman is the laborer's champion.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Use Grandmother's Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur, and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

FOUR LIVES LOST ON LINER ALAUNIA

So Far as Could be Learned at London the Remainder of Ship's Crew Were Saved.

PASSENGERS HAD LANDED

Vessel Sailed From New York on October 7 and Was Sunk by a Mine in the English Channel Yesterday.

London, Oct. 19.—The sinking of the Cunard liner Alaunia entailed only the loss of the lives of four members of the crew so far as could be learned. The remainder were rescued. It was understood that all the passengers were landed before the vessel met with a mishap.

LLOYD'S ANNOUNCES THAT THE SHIP HAS BEEN SUNK.

London, Oct. 19.—Lloyds' announces that the British steamer Alaunia has been sunk and that her captain and 163 members of the crew have been landed. With the exception of a few missing, the ship's company were landed by a trawler.

All the passepgers had been landed previously.

ALL PASSENGERS LANDED AT FALMOUTH ON TUESDAY

New York, Oct. 19.—The Cunard liner Alaunia, which sailed from this port October 7, was sunk by a mine in the English channel today, according to cable advices to the local Cunard officials, while proceeding from London from Falmouth. On Tuesday, the officials said, she landed at Falmouth all of her 243 passengers, including 21 Americans who sailed on her from New York.

The Alaunia, one of the newer vessels of the Cunard Line, sailed from New York on the day the German submarine U-53 arrived at Newport and must have passed Nantucket at about the same time the U-53 the next morning began her operations in that vicinity against the British shipping. Incidentally the Cunarder was armed for defense against submarines.

The Alaunia carried a cargo of about 11,000 tons of merchandise, including war supplies, but no munitions. Among the items listed were rubber and copper goods, food supplies and chemicals. The main part of her cargo was to be discharged at London.

Built in 1913, the ship was 520 feet long, with a gross tonnage of 13,405.

REPORTED HER TROUBLES.

She Confided Them to the Proper Telephone Department.

(Southwestern Telephone News.)

The family had not had their telephone very long, and every one took a deep and abiding interest in it. On the outside of the directory they had noted the words "Trouble, call No. 4217."

It had been a hard morning and every thing had gone wrong. Finally the lady of the house in desperation turned to her trusty telephone and called 4217.

"This is the trouble department," answered the operator, sweetly.

"Is this where you report your troubles?" asked the lady.

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, I only want to report that our cat got drowned in the cistern this morning, the baby is cutting a new tooth, the cook left without warning; we are out of sugar and starch; the stovepipe fell down; the milkman left only a pint instead of a quart today; the bread won't raise; my oldest child is coming down with the measles; the plumbing in the cellar leaks; we have only enough coal to last through tomorrow; the paint gave out when I got only half over the dining room floor; the mainspring of the clock is broken; my three sisters-in-law are coming to visit tomorrow; the man has not called for the garbage for two weeks; our dog has the mange; the looking-glass fell off the wall a while ago and broke to pieces, and I think that my husband is taking considerable notice of a widow lately that lives next door. That's all today, but if anything happens later, I'll call you up and tell you about it."

SAYS "'OMAN" THREATENED HIM

W. H. Milton Claims That Paramour Drew "Razzor" on Him.

Into police headquarters last night strolled W. H. Milton, a young negro who told the captain that he wanted a peace warrant sworn out for an "'oman." Upon being questioned he said that his paramour, Pearl Woods, had met him on a dark corner of McRae street, and with drawn "razzor" threatened to carve his anatomy with various fantastic figures.

A warrant was issued and the woman was later arrested. She protests that she is innocent, but she will have an opportunity to tell Recorder Empie the circumstances this morning.

STATE FAIR HEADED BY LEONARD TUFTS AGAIN

Legislature to be Asked for $10,000 Appropriation.

Some Permanent Improvements Absolutely Essential to Necessary Expansion It Is Considered—Big Success This Year.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 19.—With Leonard Tufts, of Pinehurst, re-elected president, the North Carolina Agricultural Society, operating the State Fair, will go, through a special committee of 25, before the next Legislature and urge the appropriation of $10,000 to be expended in permanent improvements at the Fair grounds that will make possible necessary expansion. This determination was reached in the annual meeting tonight.

There is to be a campaign launched for the unification of the community and county fairs and the State Fair so that co-operation will assure real representation of development of the State in the State Fair. It is considered necessary to at least double the space for agricultural exhibits, and the race track and grandstand must be rebuilt and extended. Col. J. E. Pogue was re-elected secretary and C. B. Denson treasurer.

Let the State Run It?

There was much discussion of wayse and means of attaining greater progress that will most completely represent North Carolina development. A commission administration was advocated by Judge R. W. Winston. Others believed the society should tender the State Fair property, assets and liabilities to the State, which should take it over and operate it as a full-fledged State institution, trend of thought in present directorate being strongly in this direction. The affairs of the Fair are to be laid fully before the Legislature.

Reports tonight showed fair receipts this week to date are about $100 ahead of receipts for corresponding period last year in spite of heavy rains this forenoon. Gate receipts this fair are already around $10,000.

Guilford County First.

Guilford county won first prize for best county exhibit in the State Fair. Haywood was second and Swain, in conjunction with the Indian exhibit from that county, was third. There were ten prizes offered and the other winners in their order were Alamance, Beaufort, Lee, Wake, Richmond, Stanly and Hoke. There were a number of other county exhibits that came in for special mention of merit.

The first prize for the best individual farm exhibit was carried off by John C. Sharpe, of Guilford county; the second by Mr. Howell, of Haywood county, and the third by Mr. Parrish, of Durham county.

The sweepstakes prize for the poultry exhibit has not yet been awarded, but great numbers of the general prizes have been awarded. These include Hardment Farm, Raleigh, for best white leghorns; B. H. Kendall, Shelby, best single comb Buff Orpingtons; Mrs. John Kerr, Durham, and W. H. Lashley, Burlington, best single comb Rhode Island Reds; R. T. Mills and C. A. Allen, Raleigh, best barred Plymouth Rocks; W. E. Mercer, Wilson, best Seabright Bantams; D. L. Christian, Rocky Mount, best Dark Cornish; George N. Cowan, Apex, and Frank Hamrick, Shelby, best White Wyandottes.

The work of judging the more than 350 fowls exhibited by the Farm Boys and Girls' Poultry clubs was in progress today and these awards will come later.

In the horticultural or apple exhibits the sweepstakes for best commercial exhibit was carried off by the Sparger Orchards, of Mount Airy. The second prize went to Mrs. Moses Cone, Blowing Rock; the third to Bolling Hall, of Waynesville. Award for the best Winesaps went to Rutledge Feild, exhibiting fruit from the Dr. H. L. Smith orchards, of which he is the superintendent. F. H. Coburn, Cruse, was given special mention for fine exhibit and record of realizing $1,800 from a four acre orchard.

BIGGEST WEDNESDAY IN THE HISTORY OF THE STATE FAIR.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 19.—The biggest Wednesday of all the Wednesdays, in the 56 annual state fairs that North Carolina has held was the record yesterday.

Interest centers particularly in the agricultural exhibits, including poultry and cattle as well as general farm products. The apples and other horticultural exhibits are declared by State Horticulturist W. N. Hutt to be especially fine, there being very much of the fruits, especially apples, that could but sweep awards at any of the National shows. The number of exhibitors has been somewhat reduced this time by the effects of the Western Carolina floods, but the showing is especially fine.

The biggest exhibit is by the Sparger orchards, Mount Airy, but some of the finest fruit is from the Asheville-Waynesville and the Brushy Mountain regions. Especially notable are the exhibits of R. N. Barber, and Bolling Hall, of Waynesville; H. P. Corwith, Saluda; Mrs. Moses Cone, Blowing Rock; F. H. Cogburn, Cruse, Haywood county, and E. L. Bryant, Durham, the latter including a most notable exhibit of nuts, pecans and the like. Mr. Hutt says the progress in the more marketable preparation and packing of the fruit is especially in evidence in the various exhibits, there being attractive prizes for packing as well as the intrinsic merit of the fruit. The indications are that the fruit yield in North Carolina is around 40 per cent of the average yield.

In the realm of field crops and county exhibits, under the direction of C. B. Williams, of the State Experiment Station, there are evidences of especially gratifying progress, Mr. Williams finding that there is a very marked improvement in county as well as individual exhibits, the county exhibits including Beaufort, Lee, Alamance, Haywood, Guilford, Chatham, Moore, Wake, Graham and Hoke counties.

Big Wake Demonstration.

There was a tremendous Wake county demonstration in the civic feature of the parade and Dr. J. Y. Joyner was chairman of a special committee to award prizes for best features of this parade. Raleigh, Wendell, Cary and numbers of the other county towns were awarded cups and other prizes for best features.

The State Department of Agriculture has more extensive exhibits and demonstration booths this fair than ever before, all especially for the quickening of interest in the best methods of farm and home management and economics. There are 30-odd counties that have special exhibits by the girls' canning clubs and there would have been more but there was not room for them in the agricultural building. The boys' corn clubs make a fine show. In the divisional exhibits of the Department of Agriculture, especially notable are the farm plots best adapted for different sections of the State—tidewater, coastal plain, piedmont and mountain regions; best use of cover crops for green manuring; proper use of limestone and marl; operation of the State seed laboratory; legume cultures as produced in the State laboratory and, last, but not least, especially in the opinion of Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. Graham, the infant indigo culture in the State, illustrating culture and treatment of the plant for the dye stuff. All the other divisions of the State Department have comprehensive exhibits that attract much attention and excite keen interest in progress in agricuttural methods.

Good Roads Meeting.

In a special meeting held at the Fair grounds right after the parade there was particular consideration given good roads problems and progress. Among those who participated were Leonard Tufts, president of the fair; W. S. Fallis, State Highway Engineer; A. L. Brooks, representing the State Good Roads Association, and others.

United States Senator Lee S. Overman was a most interested visitor at the fair yesterday. He was passing through Raleigh on a campaigning itinerary and said that the progress of North Carolina industry as reflected in the fair was most gratifying and that he anticipates a speedy development of the State Fair to fitting exposition proportions that will be a most fitting climax for the constantly increasing number of county and district fairs—a local fair and exposition system that will most creditably represent North Carolina resources and development.

Two Plans Successfully Followed in a General War on Pest.

(Chicago Tribune.)

"Swat the fly" has become an antiquated slogan in Evanston. War on the summer pest was declared throughout the suburb, and it was war by scientific, efficient methods, which are expected to relegate teh cumbersome tactics of the swatter to the limbo of forgotten things.

The attack was made from two quarters, Dr. W. Lee Lewis, city chemist and professor at Northwestern University, directing one wing of the new campaign of frightfulness. Dr. Lewis' plan, issued in the form of a bulletin, to householders, runs like this:

"Darken every window in your house but one. The flies, seeking the light, will congregate about the undarkened window. When a sizeable convention has gathered, get out the vacuum-cleaner and set it going. The machine will suck up enough air to rarify the atmosphere and the flies will swell up and burst. To put it scientifically, they will die of apoplexy."

While a few pioneers were experimenting with the plan—and finding it worked—the Evanston Boy Scout troop had squads stationed at six of the busiest corners with fly traps built according to specifications just issued by the United States department of agriculture. Within a few hours these devices of wood and wire, two feet long and eighteen inches high, had captured about one million flies apiece. The Scouts distributed hand bills broadcast explaining how to construct the traps, bait them with a toothsome lunch and lure the insects to captivity.

NEW MONEY IS DUE

National Law Requires Change Every 25 Years.

There is a national law which requires that there shall be a change in the design of all silver coins every 25 years, and as one of those periods has arrived, within a few days the government will be trading old half dollars, quarters and dimes for coins of unique design.

The new half dollars will have on one side the Goddess of Liberty holding a bunch of olive branches, with the old legend "In God we trust" above her, and on the other side a spread-eagle is poised on a rock.

Every coin is considerably changed. As an illustration of the amount of small change we require, it may be said that for months the mints at Denver, San Francisco, and Philadelphia have been minting the newly designed coins at the rate of $40,000 worth aday.

Let's get our new money and try to live up to it.

TOP O' THE MORNING.

In order to lead his fellows one must attain the independence of the great teachers whose wisdom has always been the knowledge of God.
—HAMILTON WRIGHT MABIE.

Just imagine a high protective tariff placed on top of the present high prices of the necessaries of life!

Since Judge Hughes has been on the stump he has given us a good imitation of "whipping the devil around the stump."

Atlanta's idea of her importance is that if the South were invaded by a foreign army its only objective would be the capital of Georgia, because of its emphatic strategic value.

It is announced that "the board of health of Albany, N. Y., has put a ban on kissing for sanitary reasons." Our idea about it is that none of the folks in Albany are doing any of their kissing for sanitary reasons.

It is now said that when a dog howls it is his idea of singing. It really may indicate insolence on the part of a dog whose real idea may be that he is imitating some layman who insists on singing snatches of grand opera.

The Jacksonville Times-Union takes notice of the fact that "Mr. Taft has not been heard from since he shook hands with Roosevelt." If he does not show up, we will have to search Teddy. Maybe Taft is the Charlie Ross of this wonderful campaign. He disappeared on the suspicious occasion of the banquet given at the Union League Club by a bunch of millionaires in honor of their candidate for president.

On the 7th of November thousands of young men in North Carolina will cast their first ballot. Will they vote for the party led by Vance and Aycock, who were compelled in the Reconstruction and Fusion periods to redeem North Carolina's civilization, or will they vote for the party from which it was necessary to twice rescue North Carolina from ruin. We can judge of their stamina by the way they vote.

Cotton is now selling at three times the price it brought in October, 1914. Lots of it was marketed at 6 cents a pound. This week it has sold in Fayetteville, Wadesboro, Charlotte, Rock Hill and many other places for 18 cents. Money talks! The Wilson administration started it to talking in 1914 and what it said gave confidence to cotton growers and enabled them to hold their cotton for a better price. We don't see how anybody can possess the nerve to ask farmers to vote against Wilson. Huh! They don't owe Judge Hughes either gratitude or support. Don't they owe a square deal to President Wilson and the Democratic party? We should whicker!

St. Matthew IV, 1 to 8. Even the devil quoted Scripture to One greater than the evil genius who assumed dominion over the earth. Even the devil arrogated to himself to do as he pleased with "all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them." Old Nick promised what he would do, but it was not within his power to deliver the goods. He really promised the earth. The world didn't even need him and would be happy without him. Of course, the Republican party is a small potato compared with Satan, but the G. O. P.'s idea of its importance to America always reminds of Beelzebub's arrogated power of deception. In fact, when the people think of the G. O. P. they ought to think of both of them at the same time. They surely remind us of each other when it comes to promising to "do" things and imagining vain things about their self-asserted premiership. The most that either can do is to rock the boat when they are given the chance.

NOTABLE WILSON SUPPORTERS.

One of the encouraging signs during this campaign is the fact that so many notable men and women of this country have changed over to President Wilson and are earnestly supporting him for re-election. Their influence must be great and it augurs well for Wilson in the states in which those eminent people are known better than we know them. For instance, here is a partial but notable list of the President's new supporters in this campaign:

Henry Ford, the largest automobile manufacturer in the United States.

Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University.

F. W. Taussig, professor of political economy at Harvard.

Bliss Perry, former editor of the Atlantic Monthly.

Luther Burbank, the leading horticulturist of this country.

Amos Pinchot, prominent Progressive leader.

Prof. Lewis J. Johnson, of Harvard, one of the foremost Progressives in 1912.

Judge Ben Lindsey, the widely known presiding officer of the juvenile court in Denver who has a national reputation because of his efforts for the reformation of juvenile offenders.

Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House fame, a Chicago woman who is famous in America and Europe. She is a strong Progressive and has been a staunch supporter of Roosevelt till he betrayed the Progressive party.

Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of management of the Union Pacific railroad, one of the ablest railway presidents in this country.

President F. D. Underwood, of the Erie Railroad, one of the great Northern railway systems.

Robert Babson, of Boston, one of America's greatest authorities on financial matters, who has traveled throughout many European countries. He has been a life-long Republican.

Former United States Senator Geo. F. Edmunds, of Vermont, who has been voting the Republican ticket 67 years or thereabout.

That certainly is a formidable array and when such men and women abandon the candidate of their own party or leave their party to support Wilson, we may know that strong reasons are moving them. They are patriotic and are wise in seeing the need of Wilson for another term of four years at Washington.

By the way, where have you seen such a list as that of notable and famous men who have been Democrats heretofore but are now supporting Hughes? The drift is decidedly and distinctly toward Wilson in this campaign. "There's a reason." "The record is the reason."

WHEN GEORGIANS WERE WAKED UP.

Some years ago the president of the Georgia senate called another gentleman to the chair so the president of that body could make a few scattering remarks from the floor. He declared to the senate that Georgia would not amount to any more than a hill of beans so long as the vision of Georgians was no greater than that of the keeper of a peanut stand. He emphasized the idea that Georgia's broader development and greater progress depended upon doing things on a big scale instead of monkeying around with "small potatoes and few in a hill." He entered his profound protest against the provincialism that was content to waste time on doing the crawfish act when great opportunities are faced.

The president of the senate explained that he had seized the opportunity to give a piece of his mind to "the three-for-a-quarter, two-by-four, stay-at-home and it-can't-be-done crowd who constitute the barnacles that impede progress." The Georgians must have taken the hint, for they are now boasting that "Georgia is leading the South on the broadest lines of progress." The president of the senate made them sit up and take notice.

Atlanta early adopted the idea of doing big things and everybody got interested in them on account of their size. The Atlanta spirit is that everybody there must take a hand in doing things, and that is the way the people got the habit. They unite and co-operate to the finish. When it was proposed to organize a fair association a few years ago, Atlanta's idea had some scope to it. They organized, but instead of making it a merely local affair they spread it out so as to take the whole of the South Atlantic section into the proposition. They called it the Southeast Fair Association and the fair every year is called the "Southeast fair."

The Southeast Fair opened at Atlanta last Monday, and the Constitution states that on Tuesday "the number who passed through the turnstiles reached the amazing figure of 53,159." Even a larger attendance was expected on Wednesday, as "every train from Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama and Florida points was crowded to the bumpers, and both the terminal and the union stations were jammed with incoming men, women and children, every hour of the day." The Constitution says:

"It was not only the greatest crowd which ever attended a fair in Atlanta, but it was the greatest the city has ever seen. Notwithstanding the fact that 75,000 attended the fair, the city was thronged, from morning until midnight, as it never had been before. Even while the fair crowds were heaviest during the middle of the day, the streets downtown, in the business section, were so congested with humanity as to render them well-night impassable. Such a condition as prevailed at the railroad stations yesterday had not been experienced in Atlanta before in many years, if ever. More than did, even could they have done so, would have gone to the fair, but they simply couldn't. Ever available trolley car in the city was pressed into service by the Georgia Railway and Power Company, but despite that fact, every one of them going to or returning from the grounds, was packed to capacity, with men and boys hanging onto the steps and the rear framework. Every available motor vehicle, and every other means of transportation that could be raked up in the city likewise was utilized to transport the fair crowds; and every one of these had more than a capacity load each trip, for both ways, with men riding on running boards and sitting astride tonneau doors."

The remarkable thing about the fair is that it was made a special demonstration of the livestock possibilities of the South Atlantic States. The result is that the livestock exhibit is the greatest ever seen in the South. The exhibits include an immense number of fine cattle, hogs, sheep, horses and other animals from Georgia and the neighboring states. All the blooded animal specimens were shown, and interested parties attended from several Western and Northern states. All the officials of the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, with headquarters at Chicago, are attending the fair, and they are to spend some time in the South investigating the possibilities here for the livestock industry.

Doubtless the Southeast Fair will prove of immense advantage to all our South Atlantic states. Its scope is well conceived to promote the development of the South along the line of her greatest opportunity.

MR. REYNOLDS' LETTER ENDORSING PRESIDENT WILSON

Elsewhere in The Star this morning we publish the letter of Mr. R. J. Reynolds, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, of Winston-Salem, who sent Mr. Hugh MacRae his check for $10,000 as his individual contribution to the Wilson-Marshall Campaign Fund, of which Mr. MacRae is treasurer. Mr. Reynolds gives strong reasons for his change to President Wilson and his approval of the constructive Democratic party is no less emphatic than his hearty endorsement of the President.

The Star thanks Mr. MacRae for the privilege of publishing the great tobacco manufacturer's letter to him, and we publish it as a matter of deep interest and importance to the people of North Carolina at a time so momentous as this. The views of Mr. Reynolds, a man of large affairs, are particularly significant of his great industrial and financial interest in the re-election of Wilson and his strongly expressed confidence in the Democratic administration upon its great record of achievement.

PROFESSOR TAFT WOULD KNOW BETTER

The South has a firm conviction that it is in the Union, so it is a wholly gratuitous assumption on the part of Judge Hughes to labor under the egregious misapprehension that the South isn't in a thing but the saddle. It is a horrid bit of rhetoric to say that "the South is in the saddle" when it is so much more refined to say that the South is a conspicuously vital factor in our nationalized homogeneity.

Professor Taft would know better than to indulge in such rhetoric as that employed by Judge Hughes upon the stump. Indeed, we will never be able to elevate the stump to the dignity of the bench till we confine ourselves to the language of the court.

APPEAL TO YOUNG MEN OF WILMINGTON

To the Editor of The Star:

If I did not know of your loyalty to Democracy I would not ask you to publish this article, if it were not for the fact that as chairman of a subcommittee I am anxious to see our count in the front rank—where she belongs, I would not force it upon the public—but as everyone does not see things as you and I, it is necessary to resort to these methods once in a while. Not merely to get your name in print, as some seem to think, but that you may be of some service to your party in a time when service counts.

In soliciting funds for the Wilson campaign one runs up against various and sundry excuses, the main one being "times are so hard I just can't help, but I'm with you." Now, let's see about the hard times. On the sixteenth of this month we had with us the famous Buffalo Bill with his wild west aggregation. At each performance the tent was packed. The general admission was fifty cents, reserved seats fifty, making a total of one dollar, to say nothing of side shows, concerts, etc. This etc. means peanuts, popcorn, cracker-jack, red lemonade, whistles, pennants and dust-laden ice cream cones. They all did a thriving business. A young man did not care to go alone; he took his girl along, which doubled the expense. The husband took his wife, or children, and to satisfy his desire to be a boy again and spend an evening of enjoyment they spend two or three dollars—but then it's theirs; no one has anything to do with the way they spend it, it's none of our business; we know that, and I'm not criticising anyone. But just to prove to them the inconsistency of their excuse for not contributing at least one dollar to help elect a man like Woodrow Wilson. The same thing will happen the sixth of November, when Robinson's circus comes around—yet hundreds of young men will tell you it's because times are hard and they cannot afford it.

Sometimes, I wonder if the young men ever think, if they are living altogether in the present, if their thoughts never go back to the dark days our fathers tell us of. Our dear old Southland has had a hard struggle but God has been good to us. He has smiled upon us and now she has come into her own. The same South who fought a fight she thought was right is today guiding the very nation whom she fought; guiding it through the most critical period of its history—and how well we all know. Our grand Old North State has done more than her share. Think of the honor she holds, of the influence she wields; the leader of the House, the chairman of the Finance Committee, Secretary of the Navy and chairmen of other committees that I need not mention. Are you proud of it, young man, or are so indifferent you don't care? Mr. Hughes says that these things should not be, that the South is in the saddle and should be overthrown. Sounds like he has dug up the old rusty hatchet that the South has tried so long to bury. Seems as if his doctrine is for the North to pull away from the Union this time. If he is elected, what will happen? That is the question. Is it necessary for you to think very deeply to give your answer. War with Mexico is certain if it's Hughes. And who are the boys on the border who would be the first ones to lay down their lives to save the property of the few men whose interests are so great in Mexico? Our own boys, for North Carolina has always been the first to respond to the call of duty. Your boy, perhaps—and yet—if Wilson goes back it means peace, and with honor. It means the South will still go forward, also the North, the East and the West, for he is too broad to draw a line. It means a master mind who asks for strength, wisdom and guidance from Him who rules the destiny of worlds unknown. It means a man who knows no fear of any one man; or group of men; of any king or potentate. One who sees his duty clearly and performs it fearlessly—Woodrow Wilson, the world's greatest living character.

The finance committee needs funds to help put him back. Won't you help, just a little? Be loyal to your party, to your State, to your county, to your city and help save our nation.

Yours ver truly,
S. A. MATTHEWS.

DISCUSSES LOCATION OF CORN SHOW

To the Editor of The Star:

I have been reading with much interest all articles pertaining to location for the Corn Show, and, really, these articles grow more and more interesting.

I had not intended saying anything on the subject, other than I have already said to parties who interviewed me after the location had been decided upon, but since reading last night's and this morning's papers on the subject, I have changed my mind. However, the matter, so far as I'm concerned, is closed, other than to express myself and my position which is as follows: I am a resident and property owner on Chestnut street and a short while ago was very much surprised to know this thoroughfare was to be entirely closed from Third street west for a block and a half on Chestnut and also a block on Second street, to accommodate or house the Corn Show. At first I thought it a joke as I had never heard of any city or town closing their streets entirely for anything except in cases of necessity.

I know of no "progressive town of the Piedmont or mountainous sections, as mentioned, or even as near home as Goldsboro, entirely blocking their main thoroughfares to hold a show or fair of any kind. The article this morning speaks of the merchants of Goldsboro having closed their stores part of a day to attend the fair at the fair grounds. So it would seem that these progressive towns of other sections are prepared to take care of all public benefits in other ways than in the middle of their streets to the great inconvenience of their business and residential citizens.

I think the real issue in this matter has been dodged to some extent since it would appear to some that there are persons who object to the Corn Show itself, when as a matter of fact I know of no one, who objects to that. I, for one, worked in and out of season for it last year and am booked to do the same this year. I'll also venture to say that I suspect that I, as well as others, have done as much personal work for the good of Wilmington and have her interests and uplift as much at heart as some who are so severe in their criticism of a few of us who thought we had some right as citizens.

When I found this matter of location was not a joke and was approached with a petition protesting against the location, I added my name, my reason being because of the great inconvenience in being entirely shut out in the rear of my premises for at least a week, since the four days of the Corn Show is not all, for you must add to that the time for preparation and then removing the exhibits, etc. I objected also because of the added danger in the case of fire and also on account of damage that would be done to plazas and shrubbery in case an entrance was had on Third street. I find, however, that I, with others, have made a grave mistake in making any protest or voicing any objection whatever, for our progressive president of the Chamber of Commerce says so. He attributes this "marked lack of co-operation" to "ignorance" and really advocates inducing such people to move elsewhere. This surely is a most progressive speech.

I'll venture to say if the location had been chosen to entirely surround his home or place of business or any of the committee, for that matter, I suspect that they, too, would have been as unprogressive and densely ignorant of the proper spirit as some of the rest of us. If there were no other place to have it, it might be different, but there are other places that will not inconvenience anyone so far as getting in and out of their homes or places of business is concerned and I think one and all should be granted this privilege, I fully agree with Mr. Whitehead and others that the Tabernacle is the logical place (this does not mean the blocking of Castle street as one might infer from article in this morning's paper) and if it isn't worth going that far to see, it isn't worth much. Speaking of co-operation, there is a way to go about a thing and a way not, and it is not reasonable to expect co-operation to any great degree when one is not consulted and knows nothing whatever until the thing, whatever it may be, is as it were, "thrust upon them."

Dictatorial demands have never brought about whole-souled co-operation in anything anywhere, nor has small criticisms ever done much in that direction. I'm assured the business sections did object last year and again this year to being shut in by the tents. Why, then, expect more of the residential sections since it is a business proposition?

MARY B. WEATHERS.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Wilmington is making elaborate preparations for the big Corn Show. Our show, if you please, for while at Wilmington it belongs to a dozen eastern counties, and last year Bladen sat at the head of the table.—Bladen Journal.

And so now comes John M. Parker and accuses Roosevelt and other Bull Moose leaders with the high crime of breaking up the Progressive party; says they are guilty of base betrayal, and while he is the nominee for vice president on the Progressive ticket he gives out a talk in New Orleans and says he is for Wilson. In other words, John M. is sore—the same as many men were sore when Roosevelt betrayed the Republican party. And that is where we fail to see that Teddy is aiding the Hughes cause much. It certainly is now clear that he betrayed the Republican party, purely on the grounds of pique—that he was personally ambitious to be president and saw a chance to do the Samson act—bring down the pillars on his own head if necessary to destroy Taft. In his egotism it appeared to him, doubtless, that he could escape. Then he posed as a great Progressive; set his pins to capture the Republican convention—and failed. Then he betrayed the party he had builded, the Moose party—and is out now with the party he destroyed four years ago. Just where a man like that finds any chance in the world to criticise Wilson for being vacillating we do not know. Certainly Wilson hasn't attempted to scuttle his ship—he has been true to his party, and Teddy is raving like a mad man—whereas he is the cause, and the sole cause of Wilson being President.—Greensboro Record (Ind.)

CHANGE OF ADMINISTRATION A CALAMITY TO THE NATION

WILSON'S RECORD PRAISED

Millionaire Manufacturer of Winston-Salem Tells Why He is Supporting Wilson.

"To make a change of the administration, under the existing conditions, to my mind, would be nothing short of a calamity to this nation," says Mr. R. J. Reynolds, millionaire tobacco manufacturer, of Winston-Salem, one of the most prominent business men of the country and said to be the largest single employer of labor in North Carolina. This statement is contained in a letter from Mr. Reynolds to Mr. Hugh MacRae, of Wilmington, secretary-treasurer of the Wilson-Marshall Campaign Fund in North Carolina.

"American history does not show, since Washington's time, that during any one administration such a large number of good constructive laws, for the benefit of all the people, have been passed as enacted under the Wilson administration," is the judgment of the Winston-Salem manufacturer, who says: "I have never permitted myself to be a blind partisan. My custom has been to assist the party which was, in my estimation, best qualified to render the greatest service to all of the people."

The announcement made this week that Mr. Reynolds had contributed $10,000 to the campaign fund to help re-elect Wilson was one of the bombs that fell into the Republican camp to arouse still greater dissatisfaction in that party.

As Mr. MacRae so well says in a letter to The Star, enclosing Mr. Reynolds' communication, the statement "shows the bigness of conception and a clear-sighted point of view of a man of large affairs." To the request that the letter setting forth his reason for supporting Wilson, be published, Mr. Reynolds gladly acceded, saying that he was willing to do all that he could to help the cause.

The letter from Mr. Reynolds to Mr. MacRae, which was made public for the first time yesterday, is as follows:

Mr. Reynolds' Letter.

"Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 13, 1916.

"Mr. Hugh MacRae, Secretary-Treasurer, Wilson-Marshall Campaign Fund, Wilmington, N. C.

"My Dear Mr. MacRae:—

"It was with a great deal of satisfaction that I contributed to the Wilson-Marshall National Campaign Fund, and your letter acknowledging the contribution was received with much pleasure.

"To make a change of the administration, under the existing conditions, to my mind, would be nothing short of a calamity to this nation.

"American history does not show, since Washington's time, that during any one administration such a large number of good constructive laws, for the benefit of all of the people, have been passed as enacted under the Wilson administration. The elimination of the lobbyist prevents the Government from being controlled by any clique, or set of men, which would encourage the bringing about of financial depressions for personal selfish gain.

"In addition to the beneficial legislation that has been enacted under President Wilson's guidance, he has succeeded in keeping the country at peace with the world, and, at the same time, maintained its dignity.

"President Wilson's Cabinet is one of the strongest we have ever had, and Congress has upheld the administration in working for the good of the whole nation.

"I have never permitted myself to be a blind partisan. My custom has been to assist the party which was, in my estimation, best qualified to render the greatest service to all the people, and I believe that the Democratic party, with President Wilson at its head, is everything that any party could ask, be it Democratic, Progressive or Republican.

"I cannot conceive of how it would be possible to contribute to a greater cause than to the Wilson-Marshall National Campaign Fund. I commend you in the great work that you are doing, and you have my best wishes for unlimited success.

"With kindest personal regards, I am, "Sincerely yours,

"R. J. REYNOLDS."

NO REPLY FROM BRUNSWICK.

Neighboring County Standing Pat on Bridge Question.

No reply has been sent the New Hanover Commissioners in regard to the communication sent the officials of Brunswick county, following the special meeting held here last month, when the government refused to have a bridge, such as specified by the bridge committee, built across Cape Fear river.

This is being taken in local circles to mean that the Brunswick people are standing pat on the bridge question. The communication from the New Hanover Commission, informed them of the decision of the government, and invited them over to attend a meeting on October 10 to consider plans for a ferry.

THE RECORDER'S COURT

Only Three Cases Disposed of at Yesterday's Session.

There was only a light docket to be disposed of at yesterday morning's session of the Recorder's court. Three negroes, all charged with an assault in some form or other, were arraigned and two of them were found guilty. William Walker paid $5 and costs for an assault on a female, while Ruth McBryde was given the costs for an alleged assault. John Dawson, who was arrested early yesterday morning, charged with an assault on another negro, near Fifth and Red Cross streets, was found not guilty.

Peterson Pays Up.

Clyde Peterson, the employe of the government dredge who was convicted in the Recorder's court a few days ago of three different charges, and sentenced to pay fines and costs aggregating $50, or go to the roads for a period of eight months, yesterday paid his fines and was released from custody.

TO AID VESSEL IN DISTRESS

The coast guard cutter Seminole sailed yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock to go to the assistance of the Clyde Line steamer Arapahoe, following the receipt by Capt. P. H. Uberroth of a wireless message that the vessel was disabled by the loss of her rudder and was lying at anchor about 20 miles north of Cape Lookout.

The Seminole's commander received the wireless about 9 o'clock and in less than a half hour steamed up and was under way. The Arapahoe is a freight and passenger steamer, bound from Jacksonville and Charleston to New York. It is one of the largest vessels on the run, registering 3,200 tons.

Shortly after Captain Uberroth received the wireless message asking aid Mr. Charles J. Becker, the local agent of the Clyde Line, also received a message by long distance telephone from Charleston stating that the steamer was disabled.

Although there was a somewhat severe storm and heavy seas raging off the South Atlantic coast, little fear was entertained as to the safety of the passengers as the messages received here were to the effect that one of the vessels of the Merchant & Miners' Line was standing by. The Clyde steamer Comanche, on the same run, is about one day ahead of the Arapahoe.

Safely Anchored—No Danger.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 19.—Wireless messages late this afternoon from the Clyde Line steamer Arapahoe, which lost a rudder off Cape Lookout in the storm early this morning, report the vessel safely anchored and in no danger. She is 20 miles northeast of the lightship and the storm is reported rapidly abating.

The coast guard cutter Seminole, from the Wilmington station, and the cutter Pamlico, from Beaufort, are en route to the scene and should reach the distressed steamer about 9:30 tonight. The Arapahoe also reports that other ships in the vicinity, including sister ships, have picked up her distress signals and are en route to the scene with the steamer Coamo the nearest. It is expected that the Coamo will take the disabled ship in tow for New York early tonight.

The Seminole Arrives.

Wireless messages from the Arapahoe at 10 o'clock tonight announced the arrival of the coast guard cutter Seminole at the side of the disabled ship. The steamer Carilla is also near the scene of the accident.

The Seminole reported that she had gotten a tow line to the rudderless liner and had been able to keep her in tow despite the prevailing southeast storm and rough seas. The Seminole will retain the Arapahoe in tow until morning, when she will be turned over to the Ward liner Coamo, a sister ship, to be towed to New York. The reports declare that the Arapahoe is in no danger and now is about 25 miles northeast of the Lookout lightship.

Other ships en route to the scene, informed of the arrival of the Seminole and Coamo and that the Arapahoe was in no immediate danger late tonight, proceeded on their respective voyages.

PROF. L. A. WILLIAMS COMING

University Expert to Meet With Teachers' Reading Circle.

Prof. Washington Catlett, superintendent of education for Wilmington and New Hanover county, has made arrangements whereby it is expected that Prof. L. A. Williams, of the department of school administration of the University of North Carolina, will meet with the Teachers' Reading Circle on Saturday, October 28.

In order to co-operate with the secondary schools of the State in this matter the State has been divided into districts, and a representative from one of the leading colleges of the State is assigned to each district, to organize the reading circles, and act as adviser. New Hanover is in the district which has been assigned to the State University.

These meetings are held on the last Saturday of each month. Professor Catlett has been corresponding with Professor Williams in regard to this for some time, and a few days ago he received a letter from him, stating that Professor Williams could be with the New Hanover teachers on Friday or Saturday of next week, if convenient with them. Prof. Catlett has written Professor Williams stating that it will be entirely satisfactory with the local teachers, and that he will expect him to be with them next week.

This course of extension work is proving to be at once valuable and interesting to the teachers, and it is expected that it will be more so after Mr. Williams has organized them permanently, and placed them on a regular basis.

WILSON FUND REACHES FOUR THOUSAND MARK

Rainy Weather Doesn't Stop Contributions From Coming In.

Workers Begin Today on Last Lap in Order to Reach the Five Thousand Goal—Enthusiasm Is Found Everywhere.

The rainy weather yesterday did not dampen the ardor of the workers for the Wilson-Marshall campaign fund in Wilmington and the four thousand mark was passed with three dollars to spare. Today marks the beginning of the last lap for reaching the goal of five thousand dollars, which has been set as Wilmington's share towards defraying the expenses of the campaign for re-electing Wilson.

The forecast of clear skies today will cause the campaign to be taken up with renewed vigor today. But a few days now remain in which to make contributions to this campaign. Election day is not far off and what is done must be done quickly. The need is urgent and the time is short.

It has not been possible, so far, for the workers for the campaign fund to reach everybody in the city and it is urged that those who have not been visited send in their contributions today either to Chairman W. A. McGirt or to any one of the chairmen of the different committees. These contributions will be acknowledged in the local papers and to those desiring it a receipt will be sent from national headquarters.

Among the contributors to the fund yesterday was a well known Wilmington young woman, who prefers that her name not be given, but she is an ardent supporter of Wilson. Many women have contributed to the fund because they realize that there is no way in which they can render more good for their country than by lending active support to the party which has placed on record so many constructive laws.

Several prominent business men sent in contributions yesterday and there are still others to be heard from. The list of contributions up to last night is as follows:

TO RAISE ENDOWMENT

Greensboro College For Women Plans to Raise $100,000.

Rev. M. T. Plyler, pastor of Grace Methodist church, of this city, has just returned from Raleigh, where he was a visitor at the State Fair. While away, Mr. Plyler also attended a meeting of the trustees of the Greensboro College for Women, at which time plans for increasing the endowment fund of the college by $100,000 were made.

The school now has an endowment fund in excess of $100,000, and with the proposed additional endowment will be in a position to carry out their work. Plans are also being made for the raising of an additional $50,000 for the erection of a dormitory, and for other improvements in the plant equipment.

The influx of students at the opening of the fall term was so great that the faculty found the college inadequate to meet their needs. When the new dormitory is secured the college authorities hope to be forever rid of the evil of boarding a part of their students off the campus.

NIGHT OF ALL SAINTS.

Hallowe'en, the Night of Policemen's Worry, October 31.

Do you remember when you used to bob for apples in a tub of water? Or hid behind the fence and held up the ghostly faced pumpkin to frighten some timid wayfarer, who was so crabbed that he didn't believe in any such "darned tomfoolery"?

Well, in just a little over a week, or on October 31, to be exact, will come Hallowe'en, the night of All Saints, of all ghosts and of policemen's worries. Then will the deacon's goat be confined in the school chapel once again, the mayor's gate will be taken off the hinges, and the belated caller's horse will be unhitched from his buggy and tied securely to the cupola of the First National Bank.

Witches galore will be in evidence, and unlike their predecessors of a few centuries ago, they will find willing victims to be impaled on their broom sticks, instead of the proverbial black cat.

Following an argument, as to who had the right of way in placing a bale of cotton on a comuress at the Champion Compress, shortly before noon yesterday, Henry Bacus, colored, was cut in the back by Alonzo Jones, another negro.

After the trouble, Bacus attempted to walk to his home, but collapsed from loss of blood near a colored pool room on Fourth street Hanover and Brunswick. MAY SAVE ARM.

Mr. Taliaferro's Physicians Hope to Avoid Amputation of Mangled Member.

The condition of Mr. John Taliaferro, who was shot near Ivanhoe early Tuesday morning, was slightly improved yesterday. Attending physicians while as yet unable to determine definitely, are of the opinion that Mr. Taliaferro's right arm, which was badly mangled, can be saved without resorting to an amputation.

Raymond Whitaker, the young white man who is alleged to have done the shooting, is still in jail, pending the recovery of Mr. Taliaferro, when he will be given a preliminary hearing probably before Justice George Harriss. It is not as yet definitely known whether his trial will be held in Wilmington or Clinton. As the offense, which Whitaker is charged with, is a felony under the laws of North Carolina, the defendant can be tried in either place.

Whitaker's alleged crime took place in Sampson county, while he was apprehended in New Hanover, of which county both he and Taliaferro are residents.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Good Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feebie stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness, and it is also unequalled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion, and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the blood. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. All leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

SLACK SEASON FOR FISHING.

Capt. James B. Church, of Southport, Says Season Dull Just Now.

This is the slack season for catching menhaden and other fish, according to Capt. James B. Church, of Southport, who was in the city yesterday on business. However, he expects the fish to be more plentiful after November 1st and during that month thinks it should be fine. Those engaged in fishing have no reason to complain, so far, says Captain Church, who states that it has come up to their expectations.

RECEPTION GIVEN IN HONOR OF DR. AND MRS. J. J. HURT.

The reception at the First Baptist church last night in honor of the pastor, Rev. Dr. John Jeter Hurt, and Mrs. Hurt was largely attended despite the generally inclement weather and was a most enjoyable occasion. The affair was arranged by the social committee of the church, of which Mrs. C. J. Kelloway is chairman. An attractive musical programme had been arranged. Grainger's Orchestra rendered pleasing selections throughout the evening. Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies or the church.

The church decorations were particularly beautiful and attractive, both in the main auditorium and in the Sunday school room, where the reception was held. The receiving line was headed by Dr. and Mrs. Hurt, the other members being the members of the board of deacons and their wives. As the guests arrived they were met at the door by members of the reception committee and escorted to the receiving line, where they had the opportunity of meeting the pastor.

Dr. Claude L. Pridgen delivered the address of welcome in which he spoke eloquently of the gracious hospitality for which Wilmington has ever been noted and he bespoke for Dr. Hurt and his family the cordial good will of a people zealous always in good works. The address was couched in touching words of sincere good fellowship and was responded to by Dr. Hurt, who spoke feelingly of his great pleasure in being thrown amidst such pleasant surroundings and promising to this church his utmost good efforts to extend the kingdom of Christ in every way possible.

Other speakers who made short talks were Messrs. G. F. Seitter, E. C. Hopkins and H. H. Woebse. A very pleasant feature of the occasion was the rendition of several musical selections by Mrs. Henry Otten and Miss Elizabeth Otten. Supper was served by the ladies of the church.

TOM MERRICK LOSES HIS APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

New Hanover Negro Will be Electrocuted Unless Governor Intervenes.

Unless Governor Locke Craig exercises clemency, Tom Merrick, a New Hanover negro, twice convicted in Superior court here for the murder of Mr. Leon B. Hudson, 15 months ago, will be electrocuted, as the Supreme Court has handed down a decision refusing to grant a new trial on his last appeal.

The defense relied mainly upon a claim that sufficient time had not elapsed after a dispute which the negro had with Hudson for the former's anger to "cool off."

The last trial was before Judge W. P. Stacy, of this city, and in writing the opinion, Justice Walter Clark found that there had been no error.

How to Easily Shed That Bad Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cutis is too thin, too tender, to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercolized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears; soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercolized wax of the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In ten days to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed.

An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt and remarkable results.—Popular Medicine.

C. Ed. Taylor and H. E. Rodgers Criticise President's Policies at Meeting at Court House.

C. Ed. Taylor, Esq., of Southport, speaking at the county court house, in Wilmington, last night, at a Republican meeting held under the auspices of the local Hughes Club, before a fair-sized crowd, criticised President Wilson for alleged failure to carry out certain planks in the Democratic platform of 1912 and also for trying to "catch" the vote of the Progressives, who believe in protection, by putting a protective duty on dyestuffs.

The speaker declared that he did not condemn protection for the dyestuffs industry, but that President Wilson, who was one of the shrewdest politicians that ever occupied the White House, had not hesitated to give up the tariff-for-revenue principles of his party, in order to win votes from the Progressives.

Mr. E. H. Freeman, member of the State Fisheries Board, introduced the speaker. Mr. J. W. Brooks, chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee, presided at the meeting.

Taking up the question as to whether President Wilson and the Democratic party had redeemed the pledges made in the Baltimore platform of 1912, Mr. Taylor declared that they had failed to make any effort to limit the presidency to a single term; that the toll exemptions for American coastwise vessels through the Panama Canal had been repudiated at the President's request; that the constitutional rights of Americans in Mexico had not been protected; that the economic administration of the government promised had not been effected, but that instead hundreds of new offices were created to take care of "deserving Democrats." Continuing, he said:

"Notwithstanding the fact that all the newspapers of the State are Democratic, more than 47 per cent of the total vote cast in 1912 was for the Republican ticket. This shows that there is merit in the Republican party's principles.

"The principle of tariff for revenue and protection is one of the cardinal principles of the Republican party. Under this system of taxation the country has become great and strong. In no other way have we become great except through the principle of protection to American industry. One of the best things that could happen to North Carolina would be for the State to go Republican. In the states where the parties are evenly divided, if one side fails to put up its best men, the opposing party takes office, and both are held to strict accountability.

"The Democrats are great advocates of policies preceded by the word 'free.' They were for free trade until it was repudiated by the business men of the country; in 1896 they were for 'free silver' and now the new apostle of Democracy, Woodrow Wilson, is advocating something he calls 'the New Freedom,' which could mean almost anything under the sun."

In conclusion, Mr. Taylor declared that the "hectic flush of prosperity" in the North was due to the European war. He asked his audience whether Wilmington business men were pleased to see half their factories on the Cape Fear idle, many of the houses in the city vacant and their labor having to leave town to get work. He closed with an appeal to his hearers to go to the polls on November 7 and cast their ballots for Charles E. Hughes for president.

H. Edmund Rogers, Esq., dean of the Wilmington Law School, who delivered the first address of the evening, was introduced by Mr. T. E. Wallace.

In the course of his address Mr. Rodgers reviewed the acts of the Democratic party and President Wilson during the past three years, characterizing President Wilson's handling of the emergencies of that period as "singularly inefficient." He vigorously rapped the President for his policy with regard to Mexico, foreign relations and the Panama Canal tolls matter.

Referring to the Mexican situation, which came to a crisis in the closing days of Taft's administration, the speaker declared that President Wilson had applied to that emergency about five different solutions, none of which really solved anything. These five methods he described as being the alternate lifting and re-imposition of embargoes on the shipment of arms into Mexico, the occupation of Vera Cruz which involved the killing of 18 American soldiers, the sending of an expedition into the country and finally the appointment of a commission to settle the matter.

With respect to foreign relations, Mr. Rodgers pointed out that in his opinion the main difficulty or emergency had arisen with Germany over its submarine warfare. He added that Germany had not been held to accountability for the loss of American lives on the Lusitania, as it had never yet paid a cent indemnity. He closed with a condemnation of President Wilson for causing the repeal of the Panama toll exemptions for American coastwise ships.

THEATRICAL

"The Lilac Domino," the great three-act musical success which Andreas Dippel presented here early in the season, will be the offering at the Academy of Music, matinee and night, Saturday, October 28. The production is said to be a pacemaker in the way of breezy, lyrical entertainment and is packed with fun and comedy blanketed in melody. There is every kind of a dance in the different scenes. In the first act there is a bal-masque, in the second a dansant and in the third a carnival, so that from classical interpretations and Russian ballet dancing to the modern society steps are portrayed. The score is unqualifiedly beautiful but so are the girls, and the costumes and the scenic effects in general. Twenty wonderful songs are rendered by as many delightful voices and a special orchestra under the direction of Mr. Milan Roder. Tickets will be placed on sale October 27 at Elvington's pharmacy.

Mary Pickford at Grand.

A treat which only comes once in many months is today's great attraction at the Grand theatre, one that should pack and jam that theatre to capacity all day long and night, too. If a price of ten cents was put on this show it would be worth it and the crowds would come anyway. But as the price remains at the old five cent figure, why there's no excuse in the world why everyone who is a patron of the Grand should not take advantage of this treat that the management is offering.

MARY PICKFORD
Starring in Two-reel David W. Griffith-Biograph Reissue, "A Pueblo Legend," at the Grand today.

The incomparable Mary Pickford comes to the Grand today in a great two-reel Biograph re-issue drama, "A Pueblo Legend," one of those great Biograph subjects directed by David W. Griffith, just before he started work on "The Birth of a Nation." Mary Pickford gained international fame by her magnificent portrayal of this stirring story of Indian life in the great West. It is one of the most spectacular dramas ever filmed and directed by that master genius, David Wark Griffith, and is in two great reels, as an extra attraction at the Grand today. You want to see this and see the incomparable Mary in one of the roles which made her famous and put her in the biggest photoplay features of the world.

The current chapter of that great serial achievement "The Grip of Evil," of course, is also on today's bill, and in it those two stars, Roland Bottomly and beautiful Jackie Saunders achieve notable fame in their portrayal of two difficult roles. It is two reels of thrills and is a great attraction on today's big five cent bargain bill.

New Bill at Victoria.

Today the popular Variety Review presents their third great bill of the week at the Victoria, everything on the entire bill being brand new with not a single number repeated by any act on the programme. This bill will be voted by many the biggest of the entire week, and it contains some features such as have not heretofore been presented which will appeal strongly to the majority of the Victoria patrons.

Today the popular Lynch Trio which has been making such a tremendous hit all the week, presents their third great act of the week, which they themselves term "something for our friends to remember us by." Therefore, it may be expected (as they intend to come back again) that they will put their best foot forward today and present the very greatest bill of the entire week. It will have to go some, everyone will acknowledge, but then these kids are right out there with the goods and can do it, there is no mistake about that.

Snyder and Vaughn will present the best act of the week, again appearing in black-face and white, presenting a rousing comedy sketch entitled, "The New Servant."

Then will come Al. Nuttle, presenting "The Musical Clown", the comedy end of his repertoire in which he will utilize a vast assortment of musical instruments.

Hill and Edmunds will present a new comedy sketch entitled "The New Recruit" while Bessie Knowles will furnish a new "Song Review" which should prove very attractive.

At the Royal.

Away in the corner of his room, huddled up on a couch, Robert Harron found her—Mae Marsh—a picture of radiant beauty. He couldn't understand why she was there and when next morning she disappeared the mystery was deeper than ever. But later the whole thing was solved. She was the daughter of a refined family, but they had brought her up a master pickpocket, capable of extracting a pocketbook under the most difficult circumstances—always able to prove her innocence by her honest smile and winning ways.

She had been stolen from her parents when a child because her father, a young judge, had sentenced the Apache chief to the gallows. The Apache queen vowed revenge and adopted the cruellest method—kidnapped the darling daughter and brought her up a pickpocket, a master thief, a disgrace to her father. But in the end the plans failed for she fell in love with a real man and years after the father found his daughter.

ROBERT HARRON
Co-Star With Mae Marsh in Triangle's "A Child of the Paris Streets" at the Royal Today.

"A Child of the Paris Streets," is the title of this, the greatest Triangle feature of the year, a David W. Griffith Fine Arts production, which is today's attraction at the Royal. It features those two great stars of "The Birth of a Nation," Mae Marsh and Robert Harron, and they have never been seen in more sympathetic roles. Every patron of the Royal should see this master drama today at the Royal.

Bargain Day at Bijou.

Today the Bijou will present a great bargain bill, for five cents which has never been surpassed in Wilmington or anywhere else, for that matter. Of course, the headliner is the second great chapter of "The Shielding Shadow". In this chapter you are introduced to the mysterious Ravengar and will see the mysterious "two flaming eyes and a dagger" which will follow you through every chapter of this great serial. If you want to see such thrills as never before you have seen on the screen, a terrific battle to the death with a monster cuttle fish on the ocean bed, and other great thrills, the mysterious appearance of "two flaming eyes and a dagger" at every conceivable point, through the door, through wood, steel, stone, or anything else, don't fail to see this great chapter. And in Revengar you will be introduced to the most mysterious character of picturedom, rivaling even the mysterious "Laughing Mask" of "The Iron Claw." You don't want to miss this great chapter today.

The other great feature is the latest great Triangle-Keystone comedy scream, a two-reeler that has been voted one of the greatest ever filmed, entitled "Willie's Wabbly Ways," and starring in the leading role that eminent comedy star, William Collier, with all-star Keystone support. If you want to laugh for a solid half hour and then wish there was another half hour of it, don't miss this great laugh feature.

Then comes the third great feature, the latest number of Selig Tribune News, containing a whole reel of great news events from all parts of the world.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE, RELIABLE WAY.

People who are over-burdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, here is a test worth trying. Spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply, and get from Elvington's Pharmacy, or any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week, so as to know just how fast you are losing weight, and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, and helps digestion. Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, footsteps become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial.

Amazing Feats Easy With HUDSON SUPER-SIX

No Evident Effort---No Sign of Wear In Doing What No Other Car Has Done

Things the Super-Six does are less important than the way it does them. In breaking world's records it has hardly shown an effort. And after 7000 record breaking miles, a Super-Six motor showed no evidence of wear in any part or bearing.

The Hudson Super-Six, in most cities, has broken all local records. Most of you have seen them broken.

It has elsewhere broken all worth-while records which have any bearing on stock cars. But all these wondrous things are done without a sign of effort.

Most stock motors go to pieces in attempting speedway tests. Also in hill-climbing feats. They never arrive at all.

But most of our stock-car records were won with a single Super-Six. It made a speed record exceeding 102 miles per hour. It broke all touring car speed records up to 100 miles. It ran 1819 miles in 24 hours, exceeding the record by 52 per cent.

Yet that Super-Six motor, after 3800 miles of that terrific strain, showed no wear whatever. The motor's condition was to experts almost unbelievable.

Another Super-Six broke the ocean-to-ocean record, solely because of endurance. It ran from San Francisco to New York in 5 days, 3 hours and 31 minutes. Then the same 7-passenger Super-Six turned around and went back to San Francisco. The round trip was made in 10 days, 21 hours, 3 minutes. It was the first car to ever finish in a coast to coast and return trip against time.

Last spring the best one-way time made by a famous 8 was 7 days, 11 hours, 52 minutes. In 2 1-2 days more the Super-Six made the round trip. No test of endurance ever equaled that.

That's What You Want

That's why men buy the Super-Six—men wise in motor cars. Not for excessive speed or power. But to render every-day performance without vibration, wear or effort.

The Super-Six at half capacity can match another car's supreme exertion. That means a long-lived motor, low upkeep, small repairs.

The great fact is that the Super-Six has almost ended vibration. It has reduced motor friction to almost nil. And that invention alone accounts for its 80 per cent. more efficiency.

Made Hudson Supreme

The Super-Six has made the Hudson undisputed king. It now outsells any other fine car with a price above $1100. In six months we have quadrupled our output, but 3500 cars per month still fail to meet demands.

Yet this is the first season of the Super-Six. Last spring it entered the market a stranger, with all a stranger's uncertainties. And men have only begun to realize what this new-type motor means.

The end of the season will find 25,000 running. It finds the Super-Six in possession of all the worth-while records. It finds a car so perfect that not one change is necessary for the coming year.

Then every motorist must concede the Super-Six supremacy. And men who have bought cars with a lesser motor will realize their mistake.

The Super-Six is not one of the passing sensations. Ours is not one of those claims to motor supremacy which yields in a year or two to another. Mark what these records mean. There is plenty of evidence now to convince you that it cannot be superseded.

You Can Save $175 Now

By buying now you can save $175. The price will be advanced December 1st. The models will not be changed. You get the same Super-Six motor, the same wonderful chassis, and the same beautiful body. Your car you get now will be identical with those we shall sell after December 1st.

On that date we start a second production of the Super-Six. Material costs have increased enormously. That forces this raise in price.

ENTER THE HORSE SHOW AND FASHION

by Hester Winthrop

Wine Colored Velvet and Rose Fox for the Afternoon

The Horse Show Riding Habit is Skirted and Finished in Every Detail

The Revived Moyen Age Line is Expressed in this Promenade Frock of Taupe Satin and Smoked Fox.

Furs make Their First Bow Horse Show Week

The Girl Who Rides Must Dress According To Rule - Furs Make Their Official Bow Horse Show Week - Pontine Coats Likely To Be the Season's Sensation - Gorgeous Wraps a Feature.

THOUGH the big horse show held annually in New York early in November is the season's official opening, sartorially speaking; there are other horse shows from society's standpoint quite as well attended by the elite and perhaps even more enjoyed because the sightseeing public takes no part in them. These are the smart affairs preceding the great show at Madison Square Garden, exclusive shows and fashionable shows, though the world and his wife do not come to gape at the fashionables who come to look at the horses and at each other. At the big show in November one may look at the horses—indeed from society's standpoint they are the only thing worth looking at—but one looks at them over the heads of dressmakers and milliners and garment manufacturers and shopkeepers and up-state visitors whose single concern is looking at the fashions worn by fashion.

At the Gedney Farm horse show, the twenty-third annual Westchester County Show, society was out in force and the show ring was laid out against a background of tall trees. The seventy parking spaces round about were jammed with touring cars and smart four-in-hand carts and on the lawns strolled the same men and women who will be the observed of all observers in the boxes at the Garden show in November. This was an affair of society indeed, and its exclusiveness was marred by no gaping, curious crowd trying to see all it could of Paris fashions to make a dollar entrance fee worth while. But since the New York show is an institution of long years' standing, and since its occurrence marks the opening of the gay winter season, society attends it from force of habit and the frocks, hats and furs worn by society at this event fix the fashions for the winter over a considerable part of the country.

Furs Whatever The Weather.

The thermometer has a disconcerting way of leaping upward in the Indian summer days of early November, but one always hopes it will refrain from such acrobatic feats Horse Show week; and that crisp northwest wind weather will welcome the outstepping of furs. For furs make their official bow to the season with the Horse Show and are worn whatever the thermometer chooses to do. Furs having been very much the thing all summer long, one cannot feel the same keen thrill at their first winter appearance in the fall; the chief interest this season lies in the new lines and shaping of fur garments, not in the furs, themselves. Several very handsome coats are being finished for Horse Show week; one of these is of seal trimmed with broad bands of mole; another of ermine, white fox and ruby velvet in striking combination. The wrap has a deep yoke below the armpits of ermine and a twelve-inch band of the same fur at the foot; the center portion is ruby velvet, and narrow borders of white fox separate the ermine and velvet. A big, soft hood of ermine, lined with ruby velvet falls down the back with a silk tassel swinging below the hips. The sleeves, set on the low yoke of ermine, are of velvet, with broad cuffs of white fox.

The mink coat pictured will make its initial appearance in this country at the Horse Show. Its fitted lines, ripple skirt and deep cape crossed in surplice fashion are in distinctive style and one should not overlook the full sleeve gathered into a deep cuff of the fur. This beautiful coat will accompany a tailored frock of brown mohair and worsted mixture trimmed with bands of brown velvet embroidered in gold. The hat of bisque velvet with matching feather is trimmed with mink fur and a gold tissue rose. Tabasco glazed kid boots with ivory tinted buttoned tops carry out the color scheme.

An evening wrap for Horse Show week is of spotless ermine, all the little black tails that have been removed from the pelt having evidently been garnered to make a fringe on the deep cape. As though the wrap were not handsome enough in itself, its maker has added a collar of chinchilla, another costly fur, cut in an altogether new hood-like shape.

The last word in fur neckwear is the straight, unshaped length of pelitry which drapes itself anyhow around the throat, giving the smart, careless collar effect now in vogue.

Coat Frocks The Autumn Vogue.

Last season they were called trotter frocks; now coat frock is the term, and the idea is that one wears them without a coat, a strip of fur being drawn around the shoulders to give the formal, outdoor suggestion, or if need be offer extra warmth. A great many of these smart little coat frocks are of navy blue serge, some are of black cloth, and there are many models in the favored brown. On Moyenage lines is the frock pictured, of taupe satin with edges silk stitched in the same shade, and bands of smoked fox at collar and hem. The long, loose lines of this costume carry out the Moyenage idea and the frock is a very smart one, just completed for Horse Show week. The beaver continental hat, bent sharply up from the face is dashingly smart also, and the costume is matched by buttoned boots of taupe colored glazed kid with white tops. The simple, but smart lines of this frock owe their modish character to a careful stiffening of the soft satin, not enough stiffening to suggest itself by rigid lines, but just enough to keep the satin from collapsing in limp folds.

Velvet tailored suits are to be more the vogue than ever this season, and velvet promises to reach its very apex of modishness. One sees it even in dancing frocks, draped over skirts of lace or embroidered net and for the afternoon tailleur it is eminently the proper thing. Of wine colored velvet is the graceful suit pictured and the fur is the beautiful rose fox whose pinkish tan color is exquisite with the new wine colored fabrics. For wine, claret and burgundy shades are as much the vogue for formal and dressy costumes as the brown shades are for tailored garb. No more graceful model has appeared this season than the wine velvet suit with rose fox trimming. The skirt is not excessively full—about two and a half yards where it falls over the buttoned boot top—but there is a pointed, fur-edged tunic, and above the tunic, the coat ripples in fur-bordered and gathered folds. The fur is all at the sides, however, front and back of the coat falling in long panels, gathered at the waistline. The triangular embroidered motifs on the vest are in wine and black shades; the buttons match them.

An evening gown to be notable at all—in the huge enclosure at the Horse Show—must have arresting characteristics, either in line or color; but this splendor is more often put in the wrap—wraps are a feature of Horse Show exploitation of clothes, and most of the occupants of the boxes keep their handsome wraps over the shoulders of their evening costumes—if modern evening costumes may be said to have shoulders! For Horse Show wear and supper wear afterward, is a brilliant evening gown of splendid color. On a ground of apricot silk, the palest yellow flushed with pink, are great, glowing tulips in flame and orange shadings. The girdle of black velvet ribbon, twisted three times around the figure over a foundation of featherbone girdelin, supports a sash of black tulle weighted at the ends with gold roses. The bodice is of apricot tulle with a floating sleeve drapery that is very graceful. Jet beads outline the neck and fall in festoons from shoulder to hip.

Rigid Rules For The Riding Girl.

There is a strict code of etiquette governing the costume of woman riders in the Show. Riding habits must be of the most formal type and in the skirted style for side saddle wear. The riding costume pictured is entirely correct, of black cloth with double breasted coat, beaver top-hat, black glazed kid boots and white stock and gloves.

Style Reminders for Horse Show Week

THE opening winter season calls for boots, not pumps, with the afternoon street costume, and buttoned boots are prescribed by fashion with all formal or semi-formal tailored suits. All black buttoned boots, made of soft glazed kid that fits foot and instep as smoothly as silk, are coming in; but boots in combination effects, of dark or neutral toned glazed kid with light buttoned tops have fashion's full endorsement for autumn and winter wear.

A new material that is creating a sensation this fall, is pontine; one side showing a cire or waxed surface, like fine, soft leather; the other side, silk, velvet, cloth or velour. Very stunning coats of pontine with smart little hats to match, are being turned out for afternoon wear at the Horse Show, and in mole gray, taupe and brown shades these coats promise to be the sensation of the week—so far as clothes are concerned in the interest of the Show.

Veils that trail down the back to the waistline have been made so common by hundreds of would-be smart young persons who can get the veils but not the automobiles that should accompany them, that the well dressed woman is wearing a very trim, closely drawn face veil with its ends securely tucked out of sight at the back. These veils are in fine hexagon mesh pattern with a dainty hand-run or dotted design.

Gloves in ivory or bisque shade are a bit smarter than dead white ones; and gloves are now elaborately stitched on the back.

The tiny trunk which will just hold the clothes needed for a week-end trip is conspicuous. Also the hat trunk. The latter is fitted with cushions to which may be pinned any hat, however large, however floppy.

Handbags That Own Themselves Formal

KEEPING up with handbags is an arduous task, these days, when so many new and fascinating styles in reticules are continually cropping up, and when every type of costume must be matched with an appropriate bag or be utterly spoiled in effect. The day is long past when one or two handbags would see a woman through a season. Two decades ago the woman with one good leather shopping bag and one plush reticule for opera glass and kerchief was quite sufficiently provided for day and evening; now there must be bags and purses of various sizes for shopping and calling use; a special automobile bag, conveniently roomy for use in the car; various silk bags to carry with dressy costumes and a whole set of evening reticules, some tiny affairs containing a powder puff, others big enough to hold dancing slippers and fan, and all made of richest fabrics in shades matching the evening wraps.

A fine taste in handbags marks the woman who is fastidious about the little things of dress, and there are women who have a fad for handbags, collecting beautiful and unusual specimens, some of which may not be carried more than once a season. It is astonishing how much one may pay for a little thing like a handbag—if one sets out to be individual and distinctive in one's taste. Some of these bags, copies of famous reticules of history, touch the hundred dollar mark, and one may give twenty—thirty—even fifty dollars for a bag that will never show itself off as a conspicuous feature of the costume—except to those who know. The woman who goes in for handbag excellence, however, makes no mistake about the bag another woman is carrying. Her eyes fly to it at once; and a mediocre handbag as surely robs a costume of distinction in the opinion of this hyper-critic as would boots of inferior make, or a hat of commonplace lines.

Beaded handbags are the most extravagant sort—if one desires to be among the sartorially elect; the hand-beading in intricate patterns that demand time and skill, is costly, and such bags are mounted on superb frames, with jewels set in the design.

One fashionable bag has a quaint landscape of the formal sort familiar on old English china from the Josiah Wedgwood shop, but this bead landscape is done in shades of brown, cream, orange and copper. It is rimmed with a circle of cream beads and set in a background of amber beads with a border and corner designs in cream. The fringe at the bottom is made of amber and cream beads and in the embossed dull gilt frame are set fiery opals.

An English pattern is seen in one bag, although the bag itself comes from Paris. The roses in shades of pale pink to warm burgundy, with leaves in silvery green, are massed against a background of crystal beads and the fringe is of beads in three shades of rose pink. This bag has a most beautiful frame of silver in Italian carved style with inset pearls, garnets and slabs of pink onyx; the cord handles are in shaded pink, to match the tones in the bag.

Steel beaded bags are liked best for day use and there are bronze and amber beaded bags for the new brown costumes so fashionable this year. A particularly handsome model has bronze and gilt beads in an allover autumn leaf design, with a dull gilt frame set with coral. For the debutante there are enchanting theatre bags all white, with crystal beads and fringe and a lining of white silk; sometimes a dainty pattern in moss rosebuds is wrought against the crystal background.

A Handsome Bag Of Blue Faille With Narrow Gun Metal Frame And Embroidery In Metal Thread.

The beaded purse in striped effect should not be hard to make, if one knows how to do beadwork of this sort. Steel and jet beads form the regular stripes and are combined in the crocheted fringe. The balls are made of steel beads, the ring which slips over the finger, also. From this ring depend six strings of steel and jet beads which support the purse.

A handsome silk bag of unusual shape, has the high, narrow frame of etched gun metal, the bag itself of deep blue faille silk with an embroidery of metal threads in silver and gun metal effect. The massive silk tassel and braided silk handle add no small distinction to this stunning reticule for afternoon bridge use.

Black silk bags embroidered with dainty border patterns in steel are in good style and not expensive—as one counts expensiveness in bags nowadays. Just as one has been trained by gradual degrees to count $5 a modest price for a pair of buttoned boots, and $12 a reasonable figure for a velvet hat shape; so does one accept without demur the fact that one's handbag is costing three, four, or six dollars where it used to cost a dollar ninety-eight. A practical and attractive model in afternoon handbags is of black silk of heavy bengaline weave; the reticule itself, drawn up at the top on silk cords, is entirely hidden under a flounce of the silk, embroidered with steel and jet beads in a conventional border pattern. A second flounce, circular in cut and not gathered like the longer flounce, turns over from the top of the bag. This circular flounce is scalloped at the edge and embroidered with two rows of steel and jet beads. The handles are broad straps of the silk which slip over the arm. This bag is shown also in blue faille with steel beads and in brown faille with bronze beads. The brown costume for autumn is entirely brown; the cloth tailleur is matched by a brown velvet or velour hat, brown furs, boots of tabasco brown glazed kid—even the umbrella is of brown silk with a handle tipped with amber—and of course a brown handbag is imperative.

Very handsome bags for the evening are made of faille silk or panne velvet gathered to strips of Chinese embroidery. These bags have oblong covered frames or may be drawn up on metal cord. The brighter the colors in the embroidery, the smarter is the bag; but the gathered lower portion must be black or richly dark in hue.

Charming little silk purses are made of silk matching one's costume. Cut two strips of silk, twelve inches long and three wide. Embroider each strip with a vine pattern in beads and join the strips along the outer edges with beads. Join the ends of the strips making a six-inch loop, then gather up the outer sides, leaving a small opening. The bag swings from the belt by a ribbon and is intended for one's handkerchief.

HEAVY DECLINE IN COTTON

Market Very Nervous and Unsettled, With General List Closing Steady at Net Loss of 24 to 29 Points.

New York, Oct. 19.—The cotton market was very nervous and unsettled today. Reactionary sentiment which had developed after the record-breaking advance of yesterday morning, was modified to some extent by unfavorable weather conditions, but every bulge seemed to meet increased offerings and after selling at 18.57 during the morning January broke to 18.22, closing at 18.26. The general list closed steady at a net decline of 24 to 29 points.

The market opened at a decline of 2 to 21 points under overnight selling orders and in response to relatively easy cables, but prices steadied up during the forenoon. Fresh buying through commission houses was a factor. December rallied from 18.37 to 18.63 and March from 18.38 to 18.67 with active months selling 3 to 4 points net higher. Apprehensions that killing temperatures would follow the heavy rains reported in the belt, encouraged this advance. Offerings increased above the 18 1-2c level for January, however, and the market was unsettled in the late trading. Selling for a reaction seemed to gain confidence while there appeared to be apprehensions of renewed submarine activity, and some Southwestern selling here was accompanied by rumors that the demand from domestic spinners had fallen off. The late break carried December off to 18.28 and March to 18.32, or 29 to 32 points net lower. Closing prices were 3 or 4 points up from the lowest on covering. Close:

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Market Undergoes Violent Price Changes With the Trend Downward.

New Orleans, Oct. 19.—Violent price changes featured the cotton trading here today, the trend being downward, the net change for the session being a loss of 25 to 32 points. Liquidation of long contracts was the main influence.

The opening slump of from 35 to 37 points gave the market an unsettled tone for the whole session. After the break came strong buying sprang up and prices quickly recovered and soon went 4 to 6 points higher than yesterday's close.

The advance was not maintained as liquidation set in heavily again and the tone became unsettled. Predictions of frost in the belt tonight and general rains in the central and eastern belts yesterday were sustaining features until the afternoon, when the trade regarded unfavorably, rumors that a private bureau was out with a report showing 7,720,000 bales ginned to October 17, a much larger amount than generally looked for.

The reported sinking of a Cunard liner also was received unfavorably. Prices broke to about the lowest levels of the day, but recovered a few points before the close, which was barely steady.

Closing bids: December 17.73; January 17.85; March 18.07; May 18.24; July 18.33.

Spot cotton steady and unchanged; sales on the spot 426 bales; to arrive 280 bales; middling 17.81.

GROUND LOST BY STOCKS

Set-Back Follows Numerous Substantial Gains Made Up Until the Final Hour of the Session.

New York, Oct. 19.—After registering numerous substantial gains today the entire list on the stock exchange lost ground in the final hour, the setback being attributed to the announcement of the sinking of a British transAtlantic liner by a mine in the English channel.

Increased scope and stability accompanied thetrading of the forenoon and mid-session, minor industrials being less prominent. Shipping stocks augmented recent gains, particularly Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies and United Fruit, but these were abruptly wiped out in the liquidation of the later period. Motor issues scored advances of 2 to almost 5 points.

Equipments and distinctive war shares were firm to strong, General Electric being foremost in its advance of almost five points, the rise resulting from rumors of impending developments favorable to shareholders.

United States Steel was strong throughout, its extreme gain of 2 3-8 to 116 1-4 representing the maximum quotation since the reversal caused almost a fortnight ago by Germany's submarine activities off the New England coast.

Bonds were irregular on further heavy offerings of international issues. Total sales, par value, $7,975,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

PRESIDENT IS GREETED AT CHICAGO BY CROWDS WHICH PACKED STREETS

been to give leave to the strong, to give opportunity to those who could dominate, but it seems to me that the function of society now has another element in it, and I believe that it is the element which women are going to supply. It is the element of mediation, of comprehending and drawing the elements together. It is the power of sympathy, as contrasted with the power of contest.

"I take leave to say that some of the difficulties of our foreign relationships in the last two years have been due to the fact that it was not comprehensible to some foreign statesmen that the United States was really disinterested.

"They had never heard of such. And in proportion as the United States demonstrated to the world that its influence in the family of nations is disinterested, it will have that part of power which does not come from arms but comes from the great invisible powers which well up in the human heart.

"When the nations of the world come to love America, they will obey and follow America.

"Slowly we are setting the stage; slowly we are marshaling the forces; slowly we are growing together. Then in some happy day America will see clearly, as she saw at first, that vision of justice and freedom and righteousness which gave her birth and distinction at the first.

Speech Before Press Club.

In his speech before the Press Club President Wilson said in part:

"One of the things that has struck me recently is that so many men have said to me, when I have asked: 'What is all this about?' that they want to stop all this 'progressive business.' The thing has amazed me because what they call this 'progressive business' is the inevitable process of life; it is the process of adjustment; things will not stand still, and if things will not stand still, laws cannot stand still.

"Therefore, it seems to me that, no matter how we are going to vote on November 7, we ought to make up our minds to this one fact, that what we call progressive action, not only in America, but in the world, has come to stay.

"The word that we want to dwell upon in our thoughts is the word 'light.' Contribute light to this thing, put light upon it. Whenever it is deserving of criticism, criticise it; not in order to stop it, but in order to better it.

"That is the object of the Tariff commission, which has been created to throw light upon what everybody has been confident he knew all about, and very few people have known anything about at all.

"That is the object of the Federal Trade commission, too. You know the lawyers had the business men very badly scared about the Anti-Trust laws, chiefly because they had an unpleasant way of keeping the business men guessing.

"I am particularly interested in something that we are just doing, to which you gentlemen of the press do not seem to have paid much attention. I mean in the appointment of those seven men whom I selected the other day to be associated with the National Council of Defense. They are the nerves by which the government is to reach the professions and authorities which they represent, and learn how the duty of supplying the government in case of necessity can best be distributed among them so as to bring all resources to the assistance of the Nation.

"I predict that this is the beginning of a renaissance in this country of the sense of patriotic responsibility and a patriotic intimacy of relationship. I believe it is going to lead to a kind of co-operation and a kind of development and a kind of enterprise in times of peace which we have never known before."

WILD DEMONSTRATION AT "NEW CITIZEN'S" MEETING

A demonstration lasting more than five minutes greeted the President at the New Citizens' meeting. Men stood on chairs and cheered, waving their hats. The President stood and bowed again and again. The applause ended when a clergyman began an invocation. When the President entered the hall tonight the audience stood and cheered.

The stock yards pavilion, where the meeting was held, was decorated with American flags and packed with people. Judge Clarence M. Goodwin, presided. Governor Dunne, of Illinois, spoke for "America First."

Shouts For Wilson.

The preliminary speakers were constantly interrupted by shouts of "Wilson, Wilson," and when the President arose the crowd, led by Governor Dunne, stood and cheered uproariously.

"I come here tonight to address those who have newly sworn allegiance to the United States," said the President, "but I realize that I cannot do so without speaking to my own conscience and the conscience of the other people of the Nation."

The President then declared that foreign-born citizens of the United States should put their American allegiance above all others. He praised the ideals that bring new citizens to the United States and outlined his belief that in the determination of the world after the present war America will play an important part.

America First.

The President pointed out that the new citizens had chosen their new allegiance. "Within the last few months," he added, "some distinctions have been drawn. A man or woman who became a citizen of the United States is not expected to give up his or her love for the country of their birth. But people who come to this country are expected to put their new allegiance above every other allegiance. It puts an obligation on him.

"The future of this Nation depends upon the self-control and loyalty of its citizens. Only by conscience and by loyalty felt in every throb of the heart can you become true citizens.

"A free self-governing people is a people which does not need to be watched."

Frequently Applauded.

The President's address was frequently interrupted by applause.

"Say it again," people in the crowd shouted as he spoke of the need for loyalty.

"It is necessary that new citizens who come to this country should not live by themselves. That is importing the old country here.

"The strength of a nation does not rest so much in its thinking as in its feeling. Outside the heart there is no life. You must see to it that you do not hold aloof.

"You must remember that the United States has a great part to play in the world. Can you imagine a nation more fitted to play a great part? A nation made out of the world should understand the world."

He said the United States stands for the rights of mankind everywhere.

"We are prepared to understand other nations.

"I like to think that in the days to come America may interpret the thoughts of the world. I like to think that the only things that disturb America are not things which interfere with her ambitions but with her sympathies.

"I like to think that when it comes to the settlement of the present war, we shall be able to assist in interpreting the needs of the future."

He added he did not mean the United States should have any part in determining th eterms of settlement.

Held to Our Ideals.

"Let us never allow ourselves to do things against our ideals?" he continued. "Let us never allow ourselves to want a single foot of foreign territory. Let us stand by the little nations that need to be stood by. Let us show that we are not interested in the geography of politics.

"Let us show that we want no boundaries to the rights of mankind.

"I believe in you as I would have you believe in America. I have you welcome to a partnership."

PROHIBITIONISTS SPEAK TO CROWDS REDUCED BY RAIN

Nominees Interrupted at Two Towns by Anti-Prohibitionists.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 19.—The prohibition special train tour across Ohio was made in a drizzling rain today that reduced the crowds that listened to rear platform speeches of the National candidates to small numbers, and in two cities, Galion and Shelby, loquacious anti-prohibitionists interrupted the meetings with protests.

One of the "wets" took the speakers' stand at Shelby and attempted to make a speech, but was hooted down. J. Frank Hanly, the presidential candidate, had just finished speaking and had given way to Ira Landrith, the vice-presidential nominee, when the anti-prohibitionists interrupted.

"You can't make this country dry. I can prove it," he shouted. "I'll come right up there and do it, if you want me to." Landrith's invitation to the man to mount the platform was accepted. Before he had time to speak, however, the crowd insisted that it did not come to hear him and he retired.

At Galion a man interrupted Oliver W. Stewart, the special train manager, but when Stewart asked him to repeat his remarks he retired.

Hanly confined himself today to arguing that the liquor traffic was challenging the sovereignty of the American people and that it found dangerous "invisible government." Landrith pleaded for moral people to exercise the ballots more freely.

DEATH TOLL REACHES FOUR WITH DAMAGE AROUND $100,000

Andalusia, Ala., Apparently Chief Sufferer from Storm.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 19.—Reports late today from Southern Alabama increased the death toll in Wednesday's storm from two to four and the property damage by upwards of $100,000. Andalusia, a small town near the Florida boundary line, appears to have been the chief sufferer, many buildings being unroofed and several residences blown down. There one person was killed and several others injured.

The other death reported today was in Coffee county, where many houses were said to have been leveled and all wires in the county blown down. Several persons were injured during the gale, the reports said.

GALE ABATES IN FURY.

Ships Which Sought Haven in Hampton Roads Resume Voyages.

Newport News, Va., October 19. — The gale which has been raging off the Atlantic coast for the past twenty-four hours, abated in fury this afternoon and ships which last night sought a haven in Hampton Roads continued on their voyage. Thus far, no reports of damage to shipping have been received here.

With the passing of the storm, shipping today had again become normal a number of vessels which had been tied up here because of the storm getting under way.

LIEUT. THAW NOT DEAD.

Is Announced at His Paris Home That He is Alive and Well.

Paris, Oct. 19.—At the Paris home of Lieutenant William Thaw, of the Franco-American aviation corps, it was said today that the lieutenant was alive and well. He arrived during the night from the front to attend the funeral tomorrow of Sergeant Norman Prince, of the Franco-American corps, who died as the result of injuries sustained in a raid over Southern Germany.

A New Haven dispatch said yesterday that word had been received there of the death of Lieutenant Thaw.

The schooner Richard W. Clark measures 503 gross tons and is owned by A. A. Corey, of New Bedford, Mass.

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron in the Blood.

If you are anaemic, you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face—colorless lips, ashen finger nails, poor circulation, and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted in this condition.

Mr. W. H. Hodges, of Kansas City, Mo., says: — "I suffered from the effects of bad blood, was run-down, dizzy, had headaches and did not feel like working. I had tried Beef, Iron and Wine without any help. After taking Vinol four days I noticed an improvement and its continued use built up my blood and my bad feelings disappeared like magic."

The bad effects of poor, devitalized blood cannot be overestimated, and it is the beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates contained in Vinol that enriches the blood, improves the circulation and in this natural manner builds up health and strength. Try it on our guarantee.

in the years ahead, a catastrophe similar to that which is now overwhelming the nations beyond the Atlantic," he said. "I want to oppose these two prayers, first of all on the ground that they have no vision.

"The prayer is without sense. It asks for things that cannot possibly be granted. It is impossible for soldiers to 'serve without reproach,' as the prayer asks. We are asking God to grant something entirely without meaning, for war cannot be waged without reproach."

Dr. Mellish was supported by the Rev. E. L. Parsons, of Berkeley, Cal., chairman of the commission which made the recommendation; the Rev. J. B. Dunn, of Lynchburg, Va., and Francis L. Stetson, of New York.

Dr. Parks Urges Adoption.

Rev. Dr. Parks, in his argument, did not support the cause of war, but said it is our duty to pray for the men in our armies and navy.

"Great numbers of young men in this country have turned away from paths that would lead to great fortunes and devoted their energies to serving their country in our army and navy," he said.

"Whether it is in active service or in 'watchful waiting'; whether they sail the seas or patrol our borders, the church should pray for them. Most of them are Christian men, many of them are our communicants. We owe them our prayers."

The commission reported that the prayer uttered by George Washington, when he laid down the supreme command of the Federal armies, could not, in their judgment, be substituted for the prayer for Our Country, recommended by the commission. The proposal was sent back to the committee for re-consideration.

Hint of Sectionalism.

For the first time in the convention a hint of sectionalism crept into the debate today, when a proposal of the commission on the Prayer Book to add a prayer for "Memorial Day" was submitted. Immediately several Southern delegates opposed the recommendation, asserting that Memorial Day is particularly a Northern institution, and that to include a prayer for it would "open up old wounds." The Rev. E. L. Goodwin, of Ashland, Va., opposed the prayer "because it touches a matter close to the hearts of the South."

The Rev. E. W. Gamble, of Selma, Ala., who said he spoke for the younger generation, expressed the contrary opinion that the prayer would not bring up memories of the strife between the North and the South. Dr. Leighton Parks argued that with a change in the name, the prayer could be used for either Abraham Lincoln or Robert E. Lee, or both. The prayer finally was named for "Memorial Days" thus overruling the objections.

HOUGHES MAKES REPLY TO SECRETARY M'ADOO

Treasury to complain that this was not a statement of what I would have done had nevertheless the sinking occurred. But I was under the impression that when I said what I would have stated in advance as to what I would do, everyone would know that I stated what in fact I would have done in the described event. The secretary's remark shows in an illuminating way this administration's conception of the statutes of words.

"It apparently seems impossible to this administration that one can mean what he says. That is its difficulty. With it a threat of action does not seem to mean anything but words. My position is somewhat different.

"I mean what I say and because this would have been well known and we should already have a reputation for firm and correct policies, I repeat that the Lusitania would not have been sunk."

Mr. Hughes spoke before an audience in the theatre and replied to a statement attributed to Secretary of War Baker in a recent speech in which Washington's soldiers in the march to Valley Force in the day of the American revolution were said to be just as bad characters as the Mexicans.

RAILWAYS' REQUEST DENIED.

No Contemporaneous Weighing of Mails During Space Pay Test.

Washington, Oct. 19.—A request of the railroads that the Postoffice Department be compelled to keep contemporaneous comparative weight records of all mail carried during the projected test of the space pay basis for railway mail pay was denied today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission denied the request after hearings, at which road representatives argued for contemporaneous weighing and officials of the Postoffice Department opposed it. Two orders were issued, denying separately a general petition presented by a committee of railroad officials headed by A. P. Thom, of the Southern, and a petition of the New Haven Company asking specifically that contemporaneous weighing be ordered throughout the New Haven system.

TROPICAL STORM SPREADS OUT OVER A WIDE SECTION

Heavy Rains and Higher Temperatures Follow in Its Wake.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Reports tonight to the Weather Bureau said that the southern storm, after joining forces with the central and west disturbance appeared now as a weak depression of wide area, covering the great central valleys and lake regions. It has been attended by heavy rains throughout the entire district east of the Mississippi river, except in the East Gulf states, where the rains were local and light.

Temperatures are abnormally high in the South and East, but much colder weather Friday or Friday night will obtain from the lake region to the gulf states with light frosts Friday night in the golf district.

The storm on the Atlantic coast has not subsided tonight and storm warnings still were displayed from Eastport to Hatteras.
